Vietnam Budget Gets Attention

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's request for an extra $12.3 billion to finance the war in Vietnam is getting prompt attention in Congress.

The request reached the Capitol Tuesday. Today, the Senate Armed Services and Defense Appropriations Committees hold a joint meeting to receive from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara more details on why the money is needed and how it would be spent.

The House Appropriations Committee, not yet formally organized, must originate the bill. Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., committee chairman, promised speedy action.

"We will report a bill as soon as we reasonably can after the necessary hearings," Mahon told a reporter.

The acting senior Republican on Mahon's committee, Rep. Charles R. Jonas of North Carolina, agreed that prompt action was needed but cautioned against undue haste.

"We need to take a close look at how some of the money we have been providing has been spent," Jonas said. "If they can make a good case for it, we'll give them all they request and maybe more."

Jonas said he was concerned over the huge spending on construction programs in Vietnam.

The ranking Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee predicted, meanwhile, that when all the costs of the war in Vietnam are finally met they "will be at least $200 billion."

Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., coupled this estimate with a protest that administration officials, whether intentionally or otherwise, "left the impression that this would be a comparatively short war."

"When all of our present commitments are met the minimum cost of the war will be at least $200 billion," Young said in a report to his constituents. "Our commitments of money and men are so great at the present time that we could not undertake another major conventional war."

The Vietnam appropriation will give the new Congress its first opportunity to stage a full debate on the administration's policies in Southeast Asia.

Such a debate raged last year, but Congress completed action late in March on a $13.1 billion Vietnam money bill. That bill went to Congress Jan. 19 and was passed without change.

Wallace Hits Welfare Rule

Case To Be Carried To Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama carries to the Senate Finance Committee today his state's fight against a cutoff of federal welfare funds.

Appearing as an assistant to Gov. Lurleen Wallace, his wife, and "as the person under whose administration all the fuss developed," Wallace argues his state's case against a decision by Secretary of Welfare John W. Gardner terminating the federal aid effective Feb. 28.

Gardner said Alabama is the only state that has refused to give adequate assurance that it will administer public assistance and child welfare programs without racial discrimination. He ruled the state was not in compliance with the non-discrimination provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

A major point in the dispute is that Alabama contends it does not have the power to compel compliance by third parties such as nursing homes and hospitals, in programs which the state itself does not directly administer.

Gardner says the state could get most of the money by compliance in programs which it does run directly.

On the eve of Wallace's appearance before the committee, Gardner denied an Alabama motion for postponement of the Feb. 28 cutoff date. The state last week filed suit in federal court in an attempt to block his order.

Alabama is receiving an estimated $95.8 million in federal welfare aid this fiscal year. Up to 200,000 persons would be affected by a cutoff.

Prior to the hearing, Wallace termed the dispute "a matter of grave principle."

"The principle is whether or not a bureaucrat can cut off funds to the blind and sick and elderly because an official of a state government office won't sign a regulation which we believe goes beyond the law," he said.

Alabama officials contend the Welfare Department's regulations go beyond the intent of the Civil Rights Act. They say they shouldn't be required to sign any assurance until courts have ruled on legality of the regulations.

The Civil Rights Act requires that Senate and House committees handling legislation dealing with the affected programs be given 30 days notice before funds are terminated.

That is why the Finance Committee, which considers Social Security legislation, arranged today's hearing at the request of Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala.

Midwest Hit By Tornadoes

Fine Weather Is Responsible

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least six persons were killed and hundreds injured by tornadoes in Missouri, Iowa and Illinois.

The violence erupted Tuesday as the Midwest basked in springlike weather that sent the temperatures soaring into the mid-70s. It happened when a cold air mass collided with the unseasonably warm air.

A teen-age boy and two young girls were killed in Missouri and a 3-year-old boy died in Iowa. A policeman in Chicago and a farmer in downstate Illinois also died as a result of the fierce winds.

Damage was heaviest in the Kansas City, St. Louis and Orrick, Mo., areas where trees were uprooted, power lines felled, roofs caved in or were ripped off buildings, and various structures were demolished.

The Orrick High School took the brunt of the first tornado reported. One student was killed and 14 other students, a teacher and two townspeople were injured.

Danny Gene Barber, 18, a senior, died in the main corridor of the school. He apparently

GOP Lays Plans To Woo Negro Voters in 1968

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Republicans are determined to pick up at least 30 per cent of the Negro vote in the 1968 presidential campaign by waging what one party official called the "most dynamic, aggressive program ever put on by the GOP."

Clarence L. Townes, a special assistant to Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss, mapped his plan to seek the Negro vote as the Republican National Committee closed a two-day meeting Tuesday.

"We had been rather ineffective in the past six years in attracting the Negro voter," Townes, a Negro, said in an interview. "I think it was because of an inability to articulate the Republican position (on civil rights)."

Townes' program calls for more contact between the Negro community and party officials and candidates through seminars and meetings with key Negro leaders.

He noted that the GOP captured 19 per cent of the Negro vote in last year's off-year election.

Bliss said that, considering the 6 per cent Negro vote the GOP received in 1964, the jump to 19 per cent was "phenomenal. I would have been surprised if we had received 12 per cent."

Townes said the Negro vote drive last year was a "guerrilla-type effort" that aided such Republican candidates as Sen.

Senate Will Debate Bill On Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate opens debate today on a bulky reorganization bill designed to improve the operations of Congress and make more information available about its actions.

Consideration of the measure follows directly a two-week Senate floor tussle over its anti-bureaucracy thrust.

This ended Tuesday with the defeat of a bloc seeking to change Senate rules so a filibuster could be shut off by a three-fifths majority instead of two-thirds as now required.

Supporters of the rule change tried to cut off a talkfest against a motion to bring up the three-fifths plan. The effort obtained only a 53-46 vote, or 13 short of the needed two-thirds.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield then announced he was going to shift to the second major piece of floor business for the 1967 session — the reorganization bill.

This measure, worked out by a special Senate-House committee during the past two years, would make about 100 changes in present congressional procedures. Mansfield estimated it would take the rest of this week and next to act on it.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., chief Senate sponsor of this legislation, agreed. He said he had been optimistic the Senate would approve most of the changes, but added he now is concerned about a flood of threatened amendments.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., long a critic of congressional procedures, already has submitted 26 amendments.

Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

The main pitch of his program will be to "remind the Negro voter that the Republican party recognizes the equality of all," he said.

Townes said most of the "meaningful open-housing laws in the nation have been passed in states where there are Republican governors and, in most cases, Republican-controlled legislatures."

The Negro voter drive will stress that the Democrats have relied on "high-sounding words and catchy-title slogans" to attract the Negro voter, he said.

Legislature To Consider Major Bills

Daylight Time Made Certain By Tuesday Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislative attention turned to two major administration programs today following a key committee vote that virtually assured state-wide observance of Daylight Saving Time this summer.

The vote late Tuesday night by the Senate Agriculture-State Agencies Committee followed a busy day in which there were these other developments:

— Majority Republicans mapped a speedy route to the May primary ballot for proposals by Gov. James A. Rhodes to create an Ohio Building Authority and permanently reapportion the legislature.

— The House gave unanimous approval to a $25 million public school deficiency bill to reimburse school districts for additional funds they spent during the 1965-66 biennium under the state's foundation formula. That measure now goes to the Senate.

Postal Rate Increases To Get Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposed postal rate increases appeared headed today for a searching study by congressional critics demanding improved mail service and higher rates for magazines and so-called "junk mail."

Senior members of congressional committees that will handle the proposal appeared split on the President's recommendation that first class letter rates be raised to 6 cents, air mail to 9 cents and other classes except parcel post by 20 to 30 per cent to bring in $700 million annually.

"I want them to give some good justifications for their expenses and explain why the mail service has broken down so badly before I make any commitment to support an increase," said Rep. H.R. Gross of Iowa, second ranking GOP member of the House Post Office Committee.

Rep. Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., another high-ranking committee member, said he opposes "an increase in the first class category without comparable or higher adjustments in all other classes of mail."

Olsen said the Post Office's deficit "results to a great extent from second and third class mail rates which are too favorable." Second class includes magazines. Third class cover mass mailings, including advertisements and free samples addressed to "resident" or "occupant."

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee, said his group will examine the President's proposals "very carefully."

"First class makes the money and they lose it on the rest," Monroney said. He said he recognized the department's need for additional funds.

Rep. Robert J. Corbett of Pennsylvania, senior GOP member of the House committee, said he believes that "some increase in these categories of mail will prove necessary."

Maoists Battle To Get Control

TOKYO (AP) — Defense Minister Lin Piao's propaganda outlet confessed today that Mao Tse-tung's shock forces are in the minority. Lin's Liberation Army Daily directed the 2.5-million-man armed forces to stamp out Mao's enemies "with the gun."

The army daily said the minority role of Mao's forces was only temporary and that the 73-year-old Communist chairman himself had issued "a vital call" for military help.

The Peking People's Daily reported Tuesday that Maoist forces, with the decisive help of the army, had seized the government of Shansi Province adjacent to Peking and the capital city of Taiyuan.

But wall posters in Peking, reported by Japanese correspondents, said that pro-Liu "Red Flag Guards" and another anti-Mao organization took over a military barracks, the provincial government offices and Communist party headquarters in Changsha, capital of Mao's native Hunan Province, after clashes with the army Jan. 15. The report said six soldiers and six Maoists were hurt.

The editorial in the Liberation Army Daily hinted at resistance within the military to throwing the massive power of the army into what began as a political and ideological conflict between Mao and government and party officials headed by President Liu Shao-chi.

"Some people use 'nonintervention' as a pretext to suppress the masses in reality," it said. "This is absolutely impermissible. The question is not whether or not to intervene, but which side to stand on."

The paper said the army had been called into action because of "the new situation" in Mao's purge, which was extended at the turn of the year to factories, mines and the countryside. Under the changed circumstances, it said, "it is not possible for the People's Liberation Army to refrain from intervention."

Gov. Romney Meets Rhodes In Cleveland

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes said today he would meet tonight in Cleveland with Michigan Gov. George Romney to discuss matters of mutual interest.

It will be the first such meeting between the two Republican governors since Romney's name became a leading one in national GOP speculation.

Rhodes also is considered by some as a potential national Republican candidate although he said over the weekend he had no plans to seek any national office in 1968.

Rhodes' office said the meeting would be at 5 p. m. in the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel. Aides said Rhodes was already scheduled to attend a natural resources meeting there.

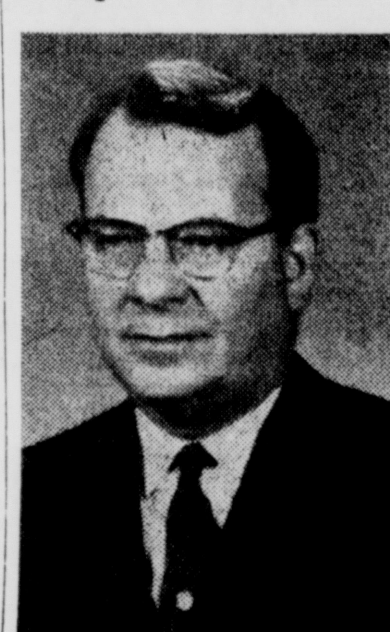

Aides quoted Rhodes as saying the meeting would be "to discuss mutual problems facing Ohio and Michigan and also some matters of interest concerning the national governors conference."

Rhodes has been trying to get the 1968 conference for Cincinnati and presumably is seeking the aid of Romney, regarded as a top contender for the 1968 presidential nomination.

Statehouse sources said the two governors likely would discuss some politics, too.

Rhodes said it would be his first such private talk with Romney.

We All Need To Drink Quart of This Daily

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Researchers at the University of Pittsburgh say they have isolated a key ingredient of kava kava, a South Seas drink that reportedly produces a peaceful, happy feeling — with no hang-over.

The ingredient, called F-1, was described Tuesday as "extremely potent" by Pitt's Dr. Joseph P. Buckley.

He explained that F-1, unlike other substances derived from kava kava, is water soluble — an important point, because South Seas islanders dissolve the kava kava root in water and drink it. In other words, it might be F-1 that gives kava kava its kick.

F-1 was tried out on some mean laboratory rats, Dr. Buckley said, and the results were drastic.

The rats were made vicious by brain lesions, said Dr. Buckley, adding, "The rats were so wild we couldn't hold them without heavy gloves."

9th Infantry Sets Up Base Near My Tho

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A reinforced battalion of American infantrymen moved into the Mekong Delta today, becoming the first large contingent of U. S. combat troops based in the area where some commanders say the Vietnam war will be won or lost.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters announced that an artillery-supported battalion of the U. S. 9th Infantry division moved into a base camp 40 miles southwest of Saigon near the delta city of My Tho.

The contingent — estimated at 1,000 men — also included elements of a brigade headquarters in the start of a buildup of American strength in the rice bowl where until now operations have been largely by South Vietnamese forces.

The infantry contingent, described by a U. S. spokesman as a "maneuver battalion," joined engineer and support units which had moved into the delta base camp Jan. 10.

The entry of U. S. combat forces into the delta, where large sections are under Viet Cong domination, came during one of the periodic lulls in fighting in the Vietnam war.

Over North Vietnam, monsoon rains and heavy cloud cover once again hampered U. S. air raids. American bombing pilots flew only 41 missions Tuesday.

The bad weather is expected to continue for the next six weeks. As it closed in, one of President Johnson's special advisers called for a continuation of American raids against the north.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former U. S. ambassador to Saigon, told newsmen the bombing of North Vietnam is an essential part of allied strategy.

"It is a blue chip for negotiation," he said.

School To Close For 'Vacation'

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Versailles School Board members voted Tuesday night to call a month-long "vacation" to combat deficit spending which they said would result from defeat of a 5-mill operation levy last week.

Schools in the Darke County town are to be closed from Friday until February 27, delaying wage payments for teachers and other school personnel for two pay periods.

To comply with state requirements of 180 days of student instruction, the board voted to extend the school year to June 29.

Some 90 teachers attended the board meeting. They had agreed earlier in the day to the emergency closing.

Vietnam Budget Gets Attention

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's request for an extra $12.3 billion to finance the war in Vietnam is getting prompt attention in Congress.

The request reached the Capitol Tuesday. Today, the Senate Armed Services and Defense Appropriations Committees hold a joint meeting to receive from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara more details on why the money is needed and how it would be spent.

The House Appropriations Committee, not yet formally organized, must originate the bill. Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., committee chairman, promised speedy action.

"We will report a bill as soon as we reasonably can after the necessary hearings," Mahon told a reporter.

"We need to take a close look at how some of the money we have been providing has been spent," Jonas said. "If they can make a good case for it, we'll give them all they request and maybe more."

Jonas said he was concerned over the huge spending on construction programs in Vietnam.

The Vietnam appropriation will give the new Congress its first opportunity to stage a full debate on the administration's policies in Southeast Asia.

Such a debate raged last year, but Congress completed action late in March on a $13.1 billion Vietnam money bill. That bill went to Congress Jan. 19 and was passed without change.

Wallace Hits Welfare Rule

Case To Be Carried To Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama carries to the Senate Finance Committee today his state's fight against a cutoff of federal welfare funds.

Appearing as an assistant to Gov. Lurleen Wallace, his wife, and "as the person under whose administration all the fuss developed," Wallace argues his state's case against a decision by Secretary of Welfare John W. Gardner terminating the federal aid effective Feb. 28.

Gardner said Alabama is the only state that has refused to give adequate assurance that it will administer public assistance and child welfare programs without racial discrimination. He ruled the state was not in compliance with the non-discrimination provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

A major point in the dispute is that Alabama contends it does not have the power to compel compliance by third parties such as nursing homes and hospitals, in programs which the state itself does not directly administer.

Gardner says the state could get most of the money by compliance in programs which it does run directly.

On the eve of Wallace's appearance before the committee, Gardner denied an Alabama motion for postponement of the Feb. 28 cutoff date. The state last week filed suit in federal court in an attempt to block his order.

Alabama is receiving an estimated $95.8 million in federal welfare aid this fiscal year. Up to 300,000 persons would be affected by a cutoff.

Prior to the hearing, Wallace termed the dispute "a matter of grave principle."

"The principle is whether or not a bureaucracy can cut off funds to the blind and sick and elderly because an official of a state government office won't sign a regulation which we believe goes beyond the law," he said.

Alabama officials contend the Welfare Department's regulations go beyond the intent of the Civil Rights Act. They say they shouldn't be required to sign any assurance until courts have ruled on legality of the regulations.

The Civil Rights Act requires that Senate and House committees handling legislation dealing with the affected programs be given 30 days notice before funds are terminated.

The army daily said the minority role of Mao's forces was only temporary and that the 73-year-old Communist chairman himself had issued "a vital call" for military help.

The Peking People's Daily reported Tuesday that Maoist forces, with the decisive help of the army, had seized the government of Shansi Province adjacent to Peking and the capital city of Taiyuan.

But wall posters in Peking, reported by Japanese correspondents, said that pro-Liu "Red Flag Guards" and another anti-Mao organization took over a military barracks, the provincial government offices and Communist party headquarters in Changsha, capital of Mao's native Hunan Province, after clashes with the army Jan. 15. The report said six soldiers and six Maoists were hurt.

The editorial in the Liberation Army Daily hinted at resistance within the military to throwing the massive power of the army into what began as a political and ideological conflict between Mao and government and party officials headed by President Liu Shao-chi.

"Some people use 'nonintervention' as a pretext to suppress the masses in reality," it said. "This is absolutely impermissible. The question is not whether or not to intervene, but which side to stand on."

The paper said the army had been called into action because of "the new situation" in Mao's purge, which was extended at the turn of the year to factories, mines and the countryside. Under the changed circumstances, it said, "it is not possible for the People's Liberation Army to refrain from intervention."

Gov. Romney Meets Rhodes In Cleveland

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes said today he would meet tonight in Cleveland with Michigan Gov. George Romney to discuss matters of mutual interest.

It will be the first such meeting between the two Republican governors since Romney's name became a leading one in national GOP speculation.

Rhodes also is considered by some as a potential national Republican candidate although he said over the weekend he had no plans to seek any national office in 1968.

Rhodes' office said the meeting would be at 5 p. m. in the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel. Aides said Rhodes was already scheduled to attend a natural resources meeting there.

Aides quoted Rhodes as saying the meeting would be "to discuss mutual problems facing Ohio and Michigan and also some matters of interest concerning the national governors conference."

Rhodes has been trying to get the 1968 conference for Cincinnati and presumably is seeking the aid of Romney, regarded as a top contender for the 1968 presidential nomination.

Statehouse sources said the two governors likely would discuss some politics, too.

Rhodes said it would be his first such private talk with Romney.

9th Infantry Sets Up Base Near My Tho

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A reinforced battalion of American infantrymen moved into the Mekong Delta today, becoming the first large contingent of U. S. combat troops based in the area where some commanders say the Vietnam war will be won or lost.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters announced that an artillery-supported battalion of the U. S. 9th Infantry division moved into a base camp 40 miles southwest of Saigon near the delta city of My Tho.

The contingent — estimated at 1,000 men — also included elements of a brigade headquarters in the start of a buildup of American strength in the rice bowl where until now operations have been largely by South Vietnamese forces.

The infantry contingent, described by a U. S. spokesman as a "maneuver battalion," joined engineer and support units which had moved into the delta base camp Jan. 10.

The entry of U. S. combat forces into the delta, where large sections are under Viet Cong domination, came during one of the periodic lulls in fighting in the Vietnam war.

Over North Vietnam, monsoon rains and heavy cloud cover once again hampered U. S. air raids. American bombing pilots flew only 41 missions Tuesday.

The bad weather is expected to continue for the next six weeks. As it closed in, one of President Johnson's special advisers called for a continuation of American raids against the north. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former U. S. ambassador to Saigon, told newsmen the bombing of North Vietnam is an essential part of allied strategy.

School To Close For 'Vacation'

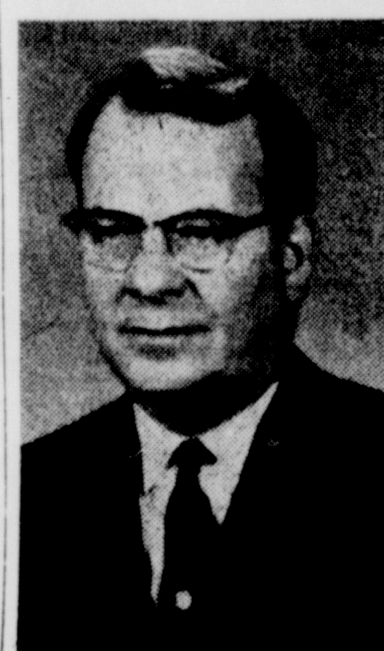

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Versailles School Board members voted Tuesday night to call a month-long "vacation" to combat deficit spending which they said would result from defeat of a 5-mill operation levy last week.

Schools in the Darke County town are to be closed from Friday until February 27, delaying wage payments for teachers and other school personnel for two pay periods.

To comply with state requirements of 180 days of student instruction, the board voted to extend the school year to June 29.

Some 90 teachers attended the board meeting. They had agreed earlier in the day to the emergency closing.

We All Need To Drink Quart of This Daily

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Researchers at the University of Pittsburgh say they have isolated a key ingredient of kava kava, a South Seas drink that reportedly produces a peaceful, happy feeling — with no hangover.

The ingredient, called F-1, was described Tuesday as "extremely potent" by Pitt's Dr. Joseph P. Buckley.

He explained that F-1, unlike other substances derived from kava kava, is water soluble — an important point, because South Sea islanders dissolve the kava kava root in water and drink it. In other words, it might be F-1 that gives kava kava its kick.

F-1 was tried out on some mean laboratory rats, Dr. Buckley said, and the results were drastic.

The rats were made vicious by brain lesions, said Dr. Buckley, adding, "The rats were so wild we couldn't hold them without heavy gloves."

But F-1 changed them remarkably, he said. No longer were they biting, rage-filled fighters. They became quiet and docile.

What's more, he said, the rats, under the influence of F-1, could walk along a rotating rod without losing their balance.

Electrical impulses from the brains of the rats showed the F-1 had acted on a much more primitive brain center than does alcohol affects brain areas concerned with reason, balance and coordination, said Buckley, but F-1 acted on areas associated with such things as rage and hate.

"Maybe this explains why the South Sea islanders who take kava kava lose their anger and feel peaceful and happy," remarked Buckley.

South Viet Government Crisis Brews

Deputy Premier Nguyen Huu Co Is Kicked Out

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—South Vietnam's ruling military junta tried to head off another political crisis today following the ouster of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co. He had been deputy premier, defense minister and the leading southerner in the junta dominated by refugees from North Vietnam.

Informed Vietnamese sources said 20 to 30 supporters of Co, most of them military personnel, had been put under house arrest, and assistants of his on the defense staff were being transferred or watched by security police.

Saigon, although filled with rumors, was quiet and there was no indication that the directory of ruling generals was breaking up. But some disgruntlement at the ouster of the southern general was reported among southern leaders in Saigon who resent the northerners' domination.

No troop movements were reported. Some officers of the 7th Vietnamese Division headquartered at My Tho, 30 miles south of the capital, were among those arrested, sources said.

Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu was reported traveling in the Mekong Delta. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky was winding up a tour of New Zealand and was expected back late Thursday or early Friday.

Despite Ky's statement to newsmen Tuesday that no governmental reshuffle was taking place, Vietnamese sources said Ky was present when the junta met before he left and decided to fire Co.

Co was on an official visit to Formosa when the junta called him Sunday not to return to Vietnam. The message suggested he visit Tokyo and Seoul.

Co got as far as Hong Kong today but was intercepted there and taken to a hotel to see Security Minister Linh Quang Vien, who had hurriedly flown to Hong Kong after word was received that Co planned to return.

Informed sources said Vien would tell Co if he remained outside Vietnam, he might be appointed ambassador to South Korea, Tunisia or the Ivory Coast. The sources said Co would be warned that if he returned to Saigon, he would face a military trial on corruption charges. It was understood political jockeying in the junta played a part in his ouster.

The move against Co had been long planned and came as no surprise, the sources said. His removal leaves only Thieu and Lt. Gen. Phan Xuan Chieu the only junta members from the group of 13 officers who overthrew the late President Ngo Dinh Diem Nov. 1, 1963.

Kerr Ouster Is Condemned By UC Faculty

1,000 Deplore Action Thought To Be Political

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—About 1,000 University of California professors and teachers have condemned the sudden firing of President Clark Kerr as a "destructive political interference conference promised the university 'won't be sullied by partisan politics.'"

Sharply worded resolutions passed Tuesday by the Academic Senate at the Berkeley campus and at the campus at Santa Barbara were the loudest academic outcries since 14 members of the Board of Regents, including Reagan, voted last Friday to end Kerr's career as head of the 87,000-student, nine-campus university.

In Sacramento, Reagan called the firing "ill-timed but necessary" and said that Kerr initiated the confrontation which led to the ouster vote.

Reagan, who had feuded with Kerr over proposals to cut the university budget and impose tuition, said the university "won't be sullied by partisan politics because this governor has no intention of ever overruling the regents."

Reagan in his campaign to govern last year charged that Kerr had permitted political activity on the campus in behalf of Reagan's democratic foe, then Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The Academic Senate at Berkeley, a few hours later, passed a resolution by an overwhelming hand vote charging the Kerr firing was political intervention which "threatens the survival of the University of California as an institution of distinction." There were more than 1,000 members present.

The assembled educators then passed 429-246 another resolution charging the regents had "betrayed" the faculty trust.

"As of today no reputable educator would assume the presidency of that university which yesterday was the envy of every other state," the resolution said. "We, the faculty of the University of California at Berkeley, condemn utterly the dismissal of President Clark Kerr by the Board of Regents."

The Senate also opposed the tuition plan suggested by Reagan. It has asked the legislature to provide adequate financial support for the university and has demanded that the faculty have a voice in the selection of a successor to Kerr.

The Academic Senate at the Santa Barbara campus, on a 237-13 vote, charged Kerr's dismissal was "wrong and the manner of it brutal." The resolution said the regents' action "constitutes a damaging surrender to political pressures on the affairs of the university."

Students at several of the other University of California campuses met during the day to plan ways to protest Kerr's dismissal.

Miss Stout To Be Honored By Sertoma

The Sertoma Club of Circleville will present its Service to Mankind Award at a banquet at the L-K Restaurant Saturday evening.

The award will be given to Miss Ruth Stout, a teacher of the seventh and eighth grades at Washington Twp. School for the past 19 years.

Miss Stout is noted here for her interest in taking students on tours to historical sites each summer.

More than 500 Pickaway County youths have had this opportunity to relive history at these sites. In 1965 she was awarded the Citizenship Medal from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge for many services in teaching Americanism to students.

Miss Stout was active in Girl Scouting for 18 years and was recipient of the Girl Scout Thank You Award.

She was chairman for a Hospital Guild for several years. She also is active in church work.

The Sertoma Club recognizes Miss Stout as an outstanding citizen in both our community and country for her time spent unselfishly in teaching her students history and using plans and projects in promoting good citizenship, patriotism and the American way of life.

This award will be presented by David Sealock, Sertoma president, and Lewis Cook Jr., chairman of the Service to Mankind Committee. The award reads, "In recognition of her tireless effort, dedication and enthusiasm to bring our country's great history to life and to show our American Heritage to the more than just a page in a book."

In war developments, U. S. Air Force B52 bombers attacked the demilitarized zone this afternoon for the second day in an effort to cut infiltration of North Vietnamese troops into the south.

The big Stratoforters unloaded tons of high explosives on infiltration routes, a bivouac area and a storage area in the six-mile-wide buffer area between North and South Vietnam. A U. S. spokesman said the bombs straddled the demarcation line dividing the zone.

It was the second raid of the day for the eight-engine bombers. At dawn, a wave of B52s hit a suspected Communist troop concentration in the central highlands close to the Cambodian border. A spokesman said the bombers struck 15 miles west of the U. S. Army Special Forces camp at Plei Djereng, a sensitive spot that has been attacked intermittently by North Vietnamese troops.

A South Vietnamese mine-sweeping launch hit a mine in a river 25 miles southeast of Saigon and sank. Five members of the crew were wounded and the U. S. adviser is missing, a Vietnamese spokesman announced.

Sponsors explained the bill will clear the way in May for statewide ballot proposals. Some Ohio communities have no primaries scheduled this year, including 18 charter cities and villages.

Hearings on the administration's ballot proposals were set to begin today with Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe among witnesses on the reapportionment plan. Generally, it would retain the present plan until the 1973 elections and provide for future redistricting by the state apportionment board.

House Republicans agreed to start hearings on the building authority proposal after an hour of discussion in closed caucus. They said purpose of the session was to familiarize GOP members with the plan which would allow the building authority to authorize bond issues with certain limitations without voter approval.

The Senate committee vote to kill the measure that would have required year-around standard time was 5-3 with Chairman Tennyho Guyer R-Findlay, the sponsor, and Sens. Clara Weisenborn, R-Dayton, and Tom Morehead, R - Zanesville supporting it. Voting against it were Sens. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-Cleveland, Charles J. gula, R-Navarre (Stark), and John Longworth, R-East Liverpool.

Guyer called for the vote after two nights of hearings at which supporters and opponents were given a chance to testify.

Another school bill offered would double the amount local school districts must levy in taxes to qualify for state aid and would require all property to be appraised at 45 per cent of true value.

Other bills presented in the House would: treat sale and use of the drug LSD as a narcotic, prohibit use of metal - spiked snow tires on Ohio highways; make participation in a police and fire pension fund optional and require the state to pay accrued liabilities; propose a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 19 and offer a reapportionment plan for 132 representatives and 33 senators after 1970.

The pension bill, proposed by Democratic Reps. Ag. Lancelone D - 30 Belmont and Joseph R. Kainrad D-35 Ravenna, was given little chance of adoption. It would give relief to 300 local subdivisions now facing accruing liabilities totaling more than $420 million because of a law enacted by the last legislature changing police and fire pension operations.

The state took over those pensions funds Jan. 1, but actuaries said many of the local funds were lacking in proper reserves. Cities have 20 years to pay the accrued liabilities, starting in 1968. The Democratic bill would have the state assume this obligation.

The northern Plains shivered in subzero cold, a major Pacific snowstorm blew inland across snowcapped mountains and the East basked in shirt-sleeve temperatures.

An indication of the topsy-turvy weather was the 62-degree high at Des Moines. After the cold front reached the area, the temperature plummeted to 27 with rain and snow.

The cold, moist air settled as freezing rain in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin. Power and telephone lines snapped under the weight of the ice and falling tree branches. Roads became slick and impassable in parts of Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

South Viet Government Crisis Brews

Deputy Premier Nguyen Huu Co Is Kicked Out

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnam's ruling military junta tried to head off another political crisis today following the ouster of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co. He had been deputy premier, defense minister and the leading southerner in the junta dominated by refugees from North Vietnam.

Informed Vietnamese sources said 20 to 30 supporters of Co, most of them military personnel, had been put under house arrest, and assistants of his on the defense staff were being transferred or watched by security police.

Saigon, although filled with rumors, was quiet and there was no indication that the directory of ruling generals was breaking up. But some disgruntlement at the ouster of the southern general was reported among southern leaders in Saigon who resent the northerners' domination.

No troop movements were reported. Some officers of the 7th Vietnamese Division headquartered at My Tho, 30 miles south of the capital, were among those arrested, sources said.

Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu was reported traveling in the Mekong Delta. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky was winding up a tour of New Zealand and was expected back late Thursday or early Friday.

Despite Ky's statement to newsmen Tuesday that no governmental reshuffle was taking place, Vietnamese sources said Ky was present when the junta met before he left and decided to fire Co.

Co was on an official visit to Formosa when the junta called him Sunday not to return to Vietnam. The message suggested he visit Tokyo and Seoul.

Co got as far as Hong Kong today but was intercepted there and taken to a hotel to see Security Minister Linh Quang Vien, who had hurriedly flown to Hong Kong after word was received that Co planned to return.

Informed sources said Vien would tell Co if he remained outside Vietnam, he might be appointed ambassador to South Korea, Tunisia or the Ivory Coast. The sources said Co would be warned that if he returned to Saigon, he would face a military trial on corruption charges. It was understood political jockeying in the junta played a part in his ouster.

The move against Co had been long planned and came as no surprise, the sources said. His removal leaves only Thieu and Lt. Gen. Pham Xuan Chieu the only junta members from the group of 13 officers who overthrew the late President Ngo Dinh Diem Nov. 1, 1963.

Kerr Ouster Is Condemned By UC Faculty

1,000 Deplore Action Thought To Be Political

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — About 1,000 University of California professors and teachers have condemned the sudden firing of President Clark Kerr as a "destructive political interference conference promised the university 'won't be sullied by partisan politics.'"

Sharply worded resolutions passed Tuesday by the Academic Senate at the Berkeley campus and at the campus at Santa Barbara were the loudest academic outcries since 14 members of the Board of Regents, including Reagan, voted last Friday to end Kerr's career as head of the 87,000-student, nine-campus university.

In Sacramento, Reagan called the firing "ill-timed but necessary" and said that Kerr initiated the confrontation which led to the ouster vote.

Reagan, who had feuded with Kerr over proposals to cut the university budget and impose tuition, said the university "won't be sullied by partisan politics because this governor has no intention of ever overruling the regents."

Reagan in his campaign to governor last year charged that Kerr had permitted political activity on the campus in behalf of Reagan's democratic foe, then Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The Academic Senate at Berkeley, a few hours later, passed a resolution by an overwhelming hand vote charging the Kerr firing was political intervention which "threatens the survival of the University of California as an institution of distinction." There were more than 1,000 members present.

The assembled educators then passed 429-246 another resolution charging the regents had "betrayed" the faculty trust.

"As of today no reputable educator would assume the presidency of that university which yesterday was the envy of every other state," the resolution said. "We, the faculty of the University of California at Berkeley, condemn utterly the dismissal of President Clark Kerr by the Board of Regents."

The Senate also opposed the tuition plan suggested by Reagan. It has asked the legislature to provide adequate financial support for the university and has demanded that the faculty have a voice in the selection of a successor to Kerr.

The Academic Senate at the Santa Barbara campus, on a 237-13 vote, charged Kerr's dismissal was "wrong and the manner of it brutal." The resolution said the regents' action "constitutes a damaging surrender to political pressures on the affairs of the university."

Students at several of the other University of California campuses met during the day to plan ways to protest Kerr's dismissal.

In war developments, U. S. Air Force B52 bombers attacked the demilitarized zone this afternoon for the second day in an effort to cut infiltration of North Vietnamese troops into the south.

The big Stratoforts unloaded tons of high explosives on infiltration routes, a bivouac area and a storage area in the six-mile-wide buffer area between North and South Vietnam. A U. S. spokesman said the bombs straddled the demarcation line dividing the zone.

It was the second raid of the day for the eight-engine bombers. At dawn, a wave of B52s hit a suspected Communist troop concentration in the central highlands close to the Cambodian border. A spokesman said the bombers struck 15 miles west of the U. S. Army Special Forces camp at Plei Djereng, a sensitive spot that has been attacked intermittently by North Vietnamese troops.

A South Vietnamese mine-sweeping launch hit a mine in a river 25 miles southeast of Saigon and sank. Five members of the crew were wounded and the U. S. adviser is missing, a Vietnamese spokesman announced.

The youths have admitted to entering an unoccupied dwelling on Pontious Lane and taking a ball bat and several fish-hooks, the chief said.

Temple discovered the house had been entered while on a routine patrol in the area.

Named to Court

Legislature

Sponsors explained the bill will clear the way in May for statewide ballot proposals. Some Ohio communities have no primaries scheduled this year, including 18 charter cities and villages.

Hearings on the administration's ballot proposals were set to begin today with Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe among witnesses on the reapportionment plan. Generally, it would retain the present plan until the 1973 elections and provide for future redistricting by the state apportionment board.

House Republicans agreed to start hearings on the building authority proposal after an hour of discussion in closed caucus. They said purpose of the session was to familiarize GOP members with the plan which would allow the building authority to authorize bond issues with certain limitations without voter approval.

The Senate committee vote to kill the measure that would have required year-around standard time was 5-3 with Chairman Tennyho Guyer R-Findlay, the sponsor, and Sens. Clara Weisenborn, R-Dayton, and Tom Morehead, R-Zanesville supporting it. Voting against it were Sens. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-Cleveland, Charles J. gula, R-Navarre (Stark), and John Longworth, R-East Liverpool.

Guyer called for the vote after two nights of hearings at which supporters and opponents were given a chance to testify.

Another school bill offered would double the amount local school districts must levy in taxes to qualify for state aid and would require all property to be appraised at 45 per cent of true value.

Other bills presented in the House would: Treat sale and use of the drug LSD as a narcotic, prohibit use of metal-spiked snow tires on Ohio highways; make participation in a police and fire pension fund optional and require the state to pay accrued liabilities; propose a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 19 and offer a constitutional change to provide a reapportionment plan for 132 representatives and 33 senators after 1970.

The pension bill, proposed by Democratic Reps. Ag. Lancione D-30 Belmont and Joseph R. Rainrad D-35 Ravenna, was given little chance of adoption. It would give relief to 300 local subdivisions now facing accrued liabilities totaling more than $420 million because of a law enacted by the last legislature changing police and fire pension operations.

The state took over those pensions funds Jan. 1, but actuaries said many of the local funds were lacking in proper reserves.

Cities have 20 years to pay the accrued liabilities, starting in 1968. The Democratic bill would have the state assume this obligation.

Ship and Planes

Shipbuilders are striving to impress upon Congress the calamitous conditions investing the nation's maritime industry. Statistically, the picture their spokesmen present could hardly be more bleak.

At the end of World War II, they recall, the United States was the supreme maritime power with 5,000 ships, "virtually all of which were only a few years old." Today the nation's maritime fleet comprises 1,040 ships—four-fifths of which are 20 or more years old.

By the same reckoning, the Soviet Union had a nondescript fleet of 432 ships aggregating 1.8 million tons in 1950. Now the Soviet fleet has grown to 1,422 ships totaling 10.4 million tons.

Summing up, Edwin M. Hood, president of the Shipbuilders Council of America, declares: "If one were to assess the worldwide maritime developments of recent years, the phenomenal growth of Russia's merchant fleet would take top honors as the most notable achievement. And, if one were to designate the greatest maritime calamity of the period, the dubious award would have to go to the United States."

A doleful situation, without doubt — especially in the light of Mr. Hood's notation that 96 per cent of 66 strategic imports required in this country arrive aboard foreign-flag vessels, "leaving only 4 per cent under our control."

Overlooked, however, is a significant feature of the revolution taking place in transportation. While the United States may have slipped at sea, it has assumed leadership in the dynamic growth of air freight.

According to a New York Port Authority survey, air cargo accounts for 29 per cent of the total value of all commercial shipments between the metropolitan area and Europe. And nearly half of that freight is carried by U. S. flag airlines. The field, once confined to precious commodities and perishables, has expanded into bulkier items, such as machinery and replacement parts.

This is not to argue that shipbuilding can continue to be neglected, or that air freight ultimately will dominate global transportation. There is need for balance in assessing the nation's future requirements.

Too many billions are at stake to leave their allotment to chance or to the persuasive powers of subsidy seekers.

'Bridges' Must Go Both Ways By John Chamberlain

It's becoming almost super-respectable to fall in with President Johnson's ideas about "building bridges" to Soviet Russia and its satellites. For example, the Rockefeller's, through their International Basic Economy Corporation, are teaming up with Cyrus Eaton Jr.'s Tower International, Inc. to cultivate "a commercial and industrial dialogue" between the East and the West. And hardly a day passes without some U. S. businessman or State Department official endorsing the theory that trade with East European Communist states can be used to pry them loose from dependence on Moscow.

The fact that an idea has become respectable, however, doesn't guarantee that it rests on a solid foundation. Nor does it necessarily mean that it will meet with the approval of the U. S. Congress unless it leads to some worthwhile political quid pro quo. The idea of a "dialogue" between East and West on commercial relations is one of those things that could be good or bad, depending on who says what. And, currently, the U. S. advocates of "bridge building" aren't exactly talking like a nifty horse traders who would insist on value being exchanged for value.

In dealing with the Communists, toughness is all. If you don't believe it, just look at what happened when two Soviet officials in Washington suddenly tumbled to the fact that young Buel Ray Wortham, the U. S. tourist who had been sentenced to three years in a Russian labor camp for a minor currency violation and a prankish theft of an iron bar, was a constituent of Congressman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas. It so happens that Wilbur Mills, as head of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, controls the fate of Lyndon Johnson's proposed legislation for extending "most favored nation" trade treatment to countries such as Rumania, Hungary, and Bulgaria. Actually, Congressman Mills never said he would keep "bridge building" bills from getting hearings as long as young Mr. Wortham was in a Soviet jail. It was a case, with Mills, of "I wish I had said it." But the theory that such was his thought brought a quick reaction from the Russians, and Wortham was suddenly freed in Moscow on bail.

In considering the Johnson "bridge building" legislation, Congressmen would do well to read two recent articles that bear on what can happen when free countries expand their commercial dealings with totalitarians.

One, by Dr. Lev E. Dobriansky of Georgetown University in the November - December 1966 issue of The Intercollegiate Review, recalls the uses that Japan and Germany made of trade with the West in the Nineteen Thirties. "During the first half of 1937," says Dr. Dobriansky, "the expansion in U. S. export trade with Japan was inclusive in its scope. . . increases were most marked in the metal, iron and steel, petroleum, machinery and vehicle groups, reflecting the accumulation of stocks of war materials and the government's program of speeding up the development of heavy industries." What we sold to Tokyo in 1937 eventually came down on our heads at Pearl Harbor in 1941. As for Nazi Germany, it was a "top importer of U. S. rubber scrap in 1937."

The second notable article, by Brutus Coste and Hal Lehman, appeared in Barron's Financial Weekly for January 16, 1967. Mr. Coste and Mr. Lehman do not condemn "bridge building" outright. But they argue, with plausible logic and irrefutable statistics, that East European countries have little in the way of goods to exchange with the U. S., and that trade with these countries must therefore rest on long-term credits. Foreign exchange deriving from such credits, say Coste and Lehman, inevitably benefits Moscow, for the money lets a stooge government off the hook in the matter of granting greater political concessions to the common people. Far from freeing East Europe from dependence on the Big Soviet Brother, East - West bridge building as currently contemplated would only serve to rivet the satellites to the imperialist power that has sworn to "bury" the capitalist West.

Coste and Lehman suggest that if long-term credit "bridges" are to go up between East and West, the U. S. should exact a quid pro quo that would keep war material from Czechoslovakia and Hungary from flowing to North Vietnam, where fifty Soviet ships unloaded cargo at the port of Haiphong in the last twelve months.

Attention, Congressman Mills. There is considerably more at stake here than the freedom of a prankish young man from Arkansas who stole a sculptured bear.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE POPULAR clergyman of a small-town congregation was obviously suffering from some undetermined ailment and finally was persuaded to consult a leading doctor.

The doctor soon became aware that one of the clergyman's overriding worries was making both ends meet, and that he feared the doctor's fee would be far beyond his means. The doctor therefore put a reassuring hand on the clergyman's shoulder and proposed, "I'll tell you what I'll do, Pastor. I hear you're a very fine preacher and you obviously respect my ability as a doctor. I'll make a bargain with you. I'll do my darndest to keep you out of heaven and you'll do your best to keep me out of hell—and it won't cost either of us a cent!"

Betty Grable, playing in "Hello, Dolly" in Las Vegas, was on the golf links there one afternoon when she discovered she was playing behind a midget. Not only did this midget (a crack contestant, by the way) have a special set of half-size clubs, a Miss Grable, but his ball was half-size, too. And when a player crossed the fairway in front of him, he holled, "TWO!"

A self-made tycoon in the garment district freely admits that he owes the greater part of his success to his wife of forty years. "I keep a big picture of her on my desk," he explains, "and every time I look at it, I work overtime."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Do steam heated rooms affect the sinuses and cause more infections in the wintertime?

The delicate lining of the nose and the sinuses can be harmed by the concentrated effect of steam heated rooms. The tissue tends to become dry and less resistant to the germs that invade the nose and the sinuses during the cold, windy weather.

Infections of the sinuses are caused by bacteria and only occasionally by viruses. The lining of all the sinuses communicate with each other and with the nose.

Besides drugs, antibiotics and nasal sprays, steam is one of the best forms of treatment for sinus infection. Hot or cold steam vaporizers replace the moisture caused by the low humidity of heated rooms.

An excellent way to use steam is to let the bathroom fill with hot water and stay in it for about ten minutes. Steam kettles are better. Only those steam kettles that cannot be tipped or overturned should be used. Many good ones are on the market designed with safety so that children can be spared the burns of unstable kettles.

An opened umbrella covered with a sheet makes a fine tent for concentrated steam. Children with croup find this comforting.

In order to avoid the drying effects of steam heated rooms a pan of water on the radiator or a 12-hour vaporizer can replenish the moisture and make breathing more comfortable.

What is Addison's disease? Can people live with it for a normal life expectancy?

This disease, named after its discoverer who described it almost a hundred years ago, affects the tiny but important adrenal gland.

The adrenal gland is one of the most important hormone producing glands in the body. When it begins to function poorly certain signs and symptoms become evident. Normally, I do not list symptoms because readers sometimes falsely believe "that sounds like what I've got."

In Addison's disease there is a special type of weakness, fatigue, low blood pressure and loss of weight. You can see by these few symptoms how easily

Do Your Dollars Seem Pale?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — What ever happened to the almighty dollar, which many foreigners claim that Americans worship?

If we do, we are bowing down to an anemic idol. For, like the Old Gray Mare, the almighty dollar ain't what it used to be. As a matter of fact, the almighty dollar looks like a mighty sick buck. It has been suffering weakening relapses for a long time now, and it is unlikely that any miracle medicine will be found that can restore it completely to its youthful vigor.

Everything in life tends to lose strength as it passes its prime and begins to age. This is as generally true of paper currencies as it is of people.

The dollar may still be a long way from the financial graveyard, but it will probably never again be the big strong buck of yore.

Now and then an event occurs that forces us to realize what inflationary malnutrition has done to the value of the dollar. Such a happening last week was the disclosure that shoeshines in some areas here have gone up to 35 cents — and that doesn't include the tip.

"Thirty-five cents for a shoeshine!" The unbelieving cry went up. "What can happen next?"

Well, that is pretty easy to prophesy. The cost of shoe shines in time will go to 50 cents, then 75 cents, and then — probably before man starts building real estate developments on the moon — to one dollar.

There are babies being born right now who will even live to see the day when they will pay $2 for a shoeshine — $1 for each shoe.

Anyone who is over 50 and who has weathered a number of depressions and several hot and cold wars also has a melancholy awareness of the various steps in the erosion of the dollar in his lifetime.

About the only gadgets left that haven't raised their prices in the last two generations are the penny gumball machine and the penny scales.

Yep, money gets tired. It doesn't travel as far as it did when it was younger. Most of us have long realized that money isn't everything. What does dismay us, however, is the realization that money isn't even what it used to be — and in some future tomorrow won't be what it is today.

But failing as the almighty dollar may be, no one wants to turn his back on it. Everybody still seems to be trying to get his hands on as many dollars as he can.

Better a sick friend than none at all.

The Business World

By John Cunneiff

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson has made clear to Congress that the Vietnam war has made a "deep imprint" on his budget, an imprint most Americans have felt for a year in their personal accounts.

The inflation we now have, and did have through most of 1966, is to a great degree the result of unexpectedly high spending in support of our military effort in Southeast Asia.

This year Johnson demonstrated a slightly changed attitude since his previous budget message. He still hopes for domestic health and wealth while paying for a war without wartime economic controls, even though it has never been done before.

Now, however, the impact of the costly war is being noted and we are called upon to make sacrifices. Even though its cost is only about 1-35th of our Gross National Product, Vietnam is pinching.

Recognition that the war is costly does not, however, foreordain the correct action. And the question now is how accurate are estimates that Vietnam will cost $22.4 billion in fiscal 1968, only $2.5 billion more than in 1967.

A year ago in Washington there was a tendency to underestimate the costs of war. This underestimate turned out to be a $10-billion error. We spent that much more than we had anticipated.

Economists and perhaps some administration officials now feel that this mistake put a relentless demand upon and economy unable to meet it without inflation.

If the cost had been accurately assessed the administration would have had to consider increasing taxes to pay for it. Since it was not accurately foreseen, taxes were not raised. The economy overheated.

The apparent cause of last year's error was an assumption that the war would end sooner than is now foreseen.

The administration has indicated that no such assumptions are being made now. The budget, nevertheless, calls for an increase in expenditures of only $2.5 billion over spending in the July 1, 1966 — June 30, 1967 period. Is this enough?

Dr. Goorey Guest Speaker At Nurses Assn. Meeting

Dr. Louis Goorey, associated with the pediatric department at Children's Hospital in Columbus, presented the program at the January meeting of the Pickaway County Registered and Graduate Nurses Assn.

Dr. Goorey's program theme was "Accidental Poisoning in Children." He served as a substitute for scheduled speaker, Dr. Louis Zollinger, who was unable to attend.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Dick Robinson, Reber Ave.

Dr. Goorey emphasized that although the incidence of the dreaded danger of child poisoning has declined in recent years, it is still a major cause of accidental children deaths.

Through extensive study it has been found that children between the ages of two to four years are more difficult to educate because of their natural curiosity. They are, therefore, more prone to accidental poisoning than other age groups Dr. Goorey said.

Prevention, he explained, lies in protection and education.

Carlessness, Dr. Goorey related, is the big factor in the accidental ingestion of poisons. He listed various ways poisons were left in places easily reached.

He listed many categories of poisons as internal and external medicines, pesticides and the like. He said the largest percentage of fatalities have been attributed to aspirin, with kerosene and petroleum products, second.

Dr. Goorey commended the Columbus Poison Control Center for its work in the field of health education and information.

Following his talk, the speaker showed slides taken during a recent trip to Japan. A few of the cities visited during the tour were Tokyo, Nikko, Osaka and Kyoto. Many other points of interest were included in the slides.

Mrs. James Fosnaugh, president, conducted the business meeting and welcomed Mrs. Martin Keenan as a guest. Following committee reports, members volunteered for the Bloodmobile visit on Feb. 17.

Advisers for the Future Nurse Clubs reported on the programs in their respective schools. They noted that field trips are being planned for the near future.

Miss Margaret Goode announced that the Valentine Tea for prospective student nurses has been planned for Feb. 26 from 2 to 4 p. m. in the Guild Rooms of Berger Hospital. Committees were named for this event.

Mrs. Fosnaugh announced that 59 Christmas gifts were purchased for welfare children and extended her thanks to the association in behalf of the Child Welfare Department.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Ralph Bryant, Mulberry Road. The program will be presented by Dr. Jonathan Foreman, Columbus allergist.

During the social hour, Mrs. Robinson was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Carl Seymour, Mrs. William Neal and Mrs. Bowman.

Paris Styles Are High — Very High, in Fact!

PARIS (AP) — The Paris spring and summer fashion collections opened Monday with Es-terel and Feraud both hiking the hemline three to five inches above the knees.

Estrel delighted his audience by showing skinny narrow afghan or rajah pants with courtier styled dresses. The costume did double duty. First worn as a hostess outfit, the pants were discarded and the dress was paraded for town wear with small brimmed millinery, gloves and handbag.

Estrel introduces his collection with two "rhythms" — the first for street and city wear, the second "a little mad," he says, for sports.

The city line follows a soft flowing flared silhouette. A bright red coat dress has cornet pockets and a pointed cowl collar in the front. A navy sheath and jacket are lined in lemon yellow and are softly tailored. Cinnamon, almond green, chef's mustard and navy blue are worked out with color contrasts or just plain.

Estrel concentrates on sailing, automobile racing, cycling, beachwear and riding with different styles for each sport. Bermudas for cycling are laced up the sides, or skin tight and very brief. In beachwear he "dresses" bikinis with contrasting trousered legs, leaving the frilly-or-plain or bicolor G-string triangles outside, achieving a bizarre effect. His cycling costume is best of all, in scarlet with the pants banded at the ankles, and a peaked cap of the same wool worn back to front. A matching red battle jacket reveals a skinny ribbed white sweater.

Louis Feraud concentrates on the young teen-ager and unless you're built that way, his clothes are not for you. But they spell charm. He favors stripes all the way, from top to toe, and his socks repeat the stripes in the dress or suit.

Feraud focuses on the leg, dressing it in a variety of ways, from plain hand-crochet style stockings to gaily striped hose on a white ground. His collection may be called a miniskirt line.

The 'Real' Chinese Revolution Is Over

EDITOR'S NOTE—The lines of conflict in mainland China are slowly becoming discernible. How the "cultural revolution" has skirted the edge of civil war is reported in this analysis by an AP specialist in Communist affairs. It is the third of a five-part series telling the background of China's troubles as far as they can be traced from available information.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

How close did Red China's current convulsion come to civil war?

Closer last June and July than it is now—closer than at any time since communism took over the vast nation, say students of the scene.

Study of Red Chinese documents has led these analysts to conclude that last summer a division from north China was moving on the Peking-Tientsin area and was stopped only at the 11th hour.

The documents also indicate that in some respects what is going on now in China is a Chinese version of what happened in Moscow in 1957, when Nikita S. Khrushchev came within a hair of being thrown out by an opposition group he labeled "antiparty."

The story of the Red Chinese regime's close brush with civil war, as the students of China piece it together, goes back to November 1965. That is when the current phase of the developing upheaval began, and the outlines of a power struggle became clearly discernible to the outside world.

The evidence is that every time Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung faces political trouble, he disappears from Peking, he takes himself to his Shanghai stronghold to weather the storm and plot countermeasures. He did this in 1954, when a grab for power by the onetime boss of Manchuria, Kao Kang, resulted in a political clash and purge. He turned up in Shanghai when the battle lines were being drawn late in 1965, and again only recently, when the confusion of his "great proletarian cultural revolution" was reaching a peak.

Mao would return from Shanghai to Peking when the time of decision was near. When a Central Committee session or some similar meeting was about to take action.

As Mao disappeared from Peking in November 1965, Wu Han, the playwright and deputy mayor of the capital was being denounced for his 1961 drama, "Hai Jui's Dismissal."

Then his chief, Mayor Peng Chen, a power in the Politburo, was brought down in disgrace. The evidence indicates Peng was purged in April last year, since he was not in his accustomed place for the important May Day parade at which he invariably had been a dominant figure.

The first attacks on Wu and Peng appeared in the Shanghai paper, Wen Hui Pao, suggesting Mao's hand. This probably was because Mayor Peng and President Liu Shao-chi still controlled the central press in Peking.

Then Liberation Army Daily,

Congress Set To Argue Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress starts work in three weeks on a Social Security bill, apparently in a mood to increase benefits but divided as to whether President Johnson's proposal is too costly.

Johnson's message Monday recommended benefit increases of 15 to 59 per cent. But these would be financed by several major increases in the payroll tax so that by 1974 some earners would be paying $599.40 a year, more than twice the present maximum.

Republicans have already introduced legislation calling for an 8 per cent increase in benefits and automatic future increases if living costs rise appreciably. They said such an improvement could be financed out of surpluses being produced by the existing tax and that a payroll levy increase would not be needed.

But Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, where Social Security legislation originates, said Republicans based these assumptions on a national economic future so favorable that it would not be safe to rely on them.

Without saying so publicly, key figures on both sides indicated they expect a compromise.

He said Republicans would weigh special feature elements of the President's proposal against the tax cost.

One they particularly tend to favor, he said, is relaxing the rules on the amount of money a retired person may earn without cutting his Social Security pension.

Mills said Ways and Means hearings will begin probably Feb. 15, with government officials testifying at least for the first three days.

the paper of Lin Piao's Defense Ministry, mounted a vicious attack on intellectuals, concentrating on editorial boards of the main papers, including the most important, People's Daily, the mouthpiece of the party. It accused the staffs of trying to protect Wu Han and his colleagues in crime and plotting against Mao's leadership in the critical 1961-62 period of economic woe which resulted mainly from the dismal failure of Mao's "great leap forward."

This attack brought down several other high-ranking people, including Lu Ting-yi, head of the party's propaganda department, and his deputy, Chou Yang; the head of Peking University and the editorial staffs of practically all Peking papers. All these were accused of trying to influence China's youth to turn away from Mao's "thinking."

Nothing is sure about Communist politics, but it appeared that both premier Chou En-lai and party Secretary-General Teng Hsiao-ping had thrown in their lot with Mao and Defense Minister Lin. Teng was in Shanghai when the purge movement began.

The situation in Peking became tense as summer neared. There was evidence of discontent among army officers and of opposition to Mao's policies from Lo Jui-ching, the chief of staff.

Lo is believed to have issued orders to a division in northwest China to move down toward Peking. Defense Minister Lin, aware of this, is believed to have ordered a division to move north to Peking out of Shanghai. He is said to have ordered his division commander to get in contact with the commander of Lo's division and order him to stay out of the Peking-Tientsin area. It worked. If it had not, civil war was just around the corner.

At this point there is reason to believe that party Secretary Teng shifted sides again, allied himself with President Liu and planned to call a Central Committee meeting to deal with the crisis. But then he changed his mind yet again, the evidence indicates. TVHs, when a Central Committee meeting finally was called for the first part of August, Mao was able to be back from Shanghai in time to attend it. The fact that there was no meeting until then may have saved Mao from being overthrown.

The Central Committee met for two weeks, then issued a set of instructions calling for "great proletarian cultural revolution." Mao seemed in control once again with the help of Defense Minister Lin and forces loyal to him.

The emerging picture was one of Lin himself striking out for supreme power through control of the propaganda apparatus and the army. To do this he had to bypass many people. The Young Communist League had been Peng Chen's creature and a source of possible opposition to Lin. The All-China Federation of Trade Unions had belonged to President Liu, and it was yet another source of opposition to Lin.

Most China-watchers agree that Lin won Mao's blessing for a new phenomenon: The Red Guards of Defense — Hung Wei Ping. It seems to have been Lin's creation.

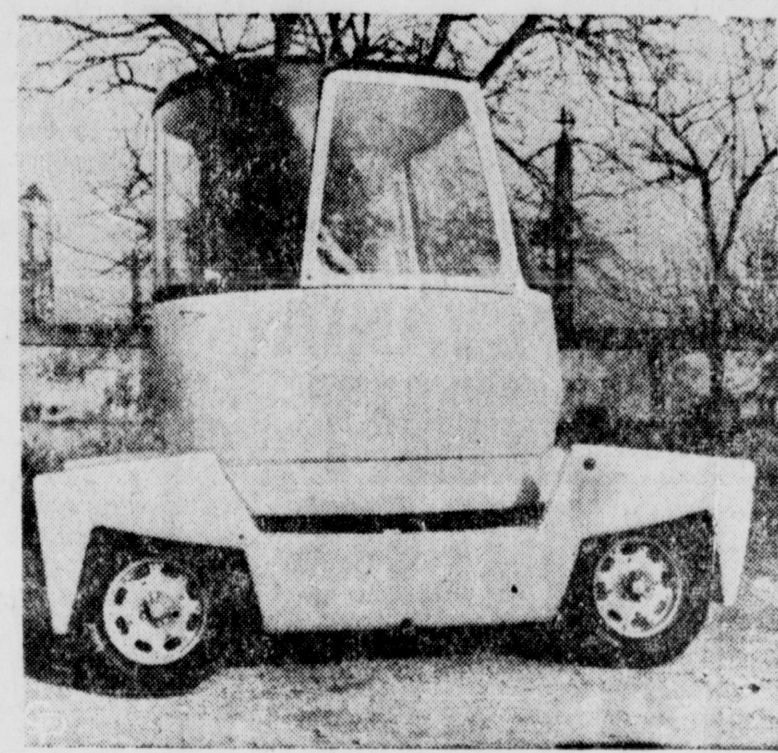

It was made up of students up to 18, millions of them, all born under communism, all indoctrinated from the cradle, all too unsophisticated to know what really was going on, and all spoiling for a binge of reckless violence with a license from on high. The intellectuals, the trade union people and the middle-aged "young Communists" would be no match for them.

Lin turned their wrath on the party apparatus at province and local levels. Swarming into the streets by the hundreds of thousands in city after city, they beat and humiliated many a lower-level party leader accused of straying from "Mao Tse-tung's thinking." And they terrorized urban populations.

Lin, meanwhile, broke up the Peking city party committee and repackaged it with his own men, thus depriving the opposition of command over the Peking garrison. He fired the Central Committee of the Young Communist League and abolished the organization. He shook up the staffs of all important provincial papers. He purged universities. He decreed suspension of all higher education in September so that students could devote themselves to the cultural revolution and "Mao's thinking."

Peng Chen had been an early purge victim because he probably was most dangerous to Lin and Mao. His position was not unlike that held by the Soviet secret police chief, Lavrenty Beria, in Moscow when Stalin died.

The non-air polluting car weighs 750 pounds, including 190 pounds of batteries, has a top speed of 33 mph and travels 53 miles without recharging. It has only one door, but the turret-shaped body can be rotated so occupants can get out either side. The "inventor" says he has orders for 6,500 at about $800 each.

The 'Real' Chinese Revolution Is Over

EDITOR'S NOTE—The lines of conflict in mainland China are slowly becoming discernible. How the "cultural revolution" has skirted the edge of civil war is reported in this analysis by an AP specialist in Communist affairs. It is the third of a five-part series telling the background of China's troubles as far as they can be traced from available information.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

How close did Red China's current convulsion come to civil war?

Closer last June and July than it is now—closer than that at any time since communism took over the vast nation, say students of the scene.

Study of Red Chinese documents has led these analysts to conclude that last summer a division from north China was moving on the Peking-Tientsin area and was stopped only at the 11th hour.

The documents also indicate that in some respects what is going on now in China is a Chinese version of what happened in Moscow in 1937, when Nikita S. Khrushchev came within a hair of being thrown out by an opposition group he labeled "antiparty." There is a similar "antiparty" group in China now.

The story of the Red Chinese regime's close brush with civil war, as the students of China piece it together, goes back to November 1965. That is when the current phase of the developing upheaval began, and the outlines of a power struggle became clearly discernible to the outside world.

The evidence is that every time party Chairman Mao Tse-tung faces political trouble, he disappears from Peking, he takes himself to his Shanghai stronghold to weather the storm and plot countermeasures. He did this in 1954, when a grab for power by the onetime boss of Manchuria, Kao Kang, resulted in a political clash and purge. He turned up in Shanghai when the battle lines were being drawn late in 1965, and again only recently, when the confusion of his "great proletarian cultural revolution" was reaching a peak.

Mao would return from Shanghai to Peking when the time of decision was near: When a Central Committee session or some similar meeting was about to take action.

As Mao disappeared from Peking in November 1965, Wu Han, the playwright and deputy mayor of the capital was being denounced for his 1961 drama, "Hai Jui's Dismissal." The play, in essence, had been a symbolic protest—understood by millions of Chinese—against Mao for purging those who disagreed with him.

Wu became the first important victim of a new purge.

Then his chief, Mayor Peng Chen, a power in the Politburo, was brought down in disgrace. The evidence indicates Peng was purged in April last year, since he was not in his accustomed place for the important May Day parade at which he invariably had been a dominating figure.

The first attacks on Wu and Peng appeared in the Shanghai paper, Wen Hui Pao, suggesting Mao's hand. This probably was because Mayor Peng and President Liu Shao-chi still controlled the central press in Peking.

Then Liberation Army Daily,

Congress Set To Argue Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress starts work in three weeks on a Social Security bill, apparently in a mood to increase benefits but divided as to whether President Johnson's proposal is too costly.

Johnson's message Monday recommended benefit increases of 15 to 59 per cent. But these would be financed by several major increases in the payroll tax so that by 1974 some earners would be paying $399.40 a year, more than twice the present maximum.

Republicans have already introduced legislation calling for an 8 per cent increase in benefits and automatic future increases if living costs rise appreciably. They said such an improvement could be financed out of surpluses being produced by the existing tax and that a payroll levy increase would not be needed.

But Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, where Social Security legislation originates, said Republicans based these assumptions on a national economic future so favorable that it would not be safe to rely on them.

Without saying so publicly, key figures on both sides indicated they expect a compromise.

He said Republicans would weigh special feature elements against the tax cost.

One they particularly tend to favor, he said, is relaxing the rules on the amount of money a retired person may earn without cutting his Social Security pension.

Mills said Ways and Means hearings will begin probably Feb. 15, with government officials testifying at least for the first three days.

the paper of Lin Piao's Defense Ministry, mounted a vicious attack on intellectuals, concentrating on editorial boards of the main papers, including the most important, People's Daily, the mouthpiece of the party. It accused the staffs of trying to protect Wu Han and his colleagues in crime and plotting against Mao's leadership in the critical 1961-62 period of economic woe which resulted mainly from the dismal failure of Mao's "great leap forward."

This attack brought down several other high-ranking people, including Lu Ting-yi, head of the party's propaganda department, and his deputy, Chou Yang; the head of Peking University and the editorial staffs of practically all Peking papers. All these were accused of trying to influence China's youth to turn away from Mao's "thinking."

Nothing is sure about Communist politics, but it appeared that both Premier Chou En-lai and party Secretary-General Teng Hsiao-ping had thrown in their lot with Mao and Defense Minister Lin. Teng was in Shanghai when the purge movement began.

The situation in Peking became tense as summer neared. There was evidence of discontent among army officers and of opposition to Mao's policies from Lo Jui-ching, the chief of staff.

Lo is believed to have issued orders to a division in northwest China to move down toward Peking. Defense Minister Lin, aware of this, is believed to have ordered a division to move north to Peking out of Shanghai. He is said to have ordered his division commander to get in contact with the commander of Lo's division and order him to stay out of the Peking-Tientsin area. It worked. If it had not, civil war was just around the corner.

At this point there is reason to believe that party Secretary Teng shifted sides again, allied himself with President Liu and planned to call a Central Committee meeting to deal with the crisis. But then he changed his mind yet again, the evidence indicates. TVHs, when a Central Committee meeting finally was called for the first part of August, Mao was able to be back from Shanghai in time to attend it. The fact that there was no meeting until then may have saved Mao from being overthrown.

The Central Committee met for two weeks, then issued a set of instructions calling for a "great proletarian cultural revolution." Mao seemed in control once again with the help of Defense Minister Lin and forces loyal to him.

The emerging picture was one of Lin himself striking out for supreme power through control of the propaganda apparatus and the army. To do this he had to bypass many people. The Young Communist League had been Peng Chen's creature and a source of possible opposition to Lin. The All-China Federation of Trade Unions had belonged to President Liu, and it was yet another source of opposition to Lin.

Most China-watchers agree that Lin won Mao's blessing for a new phenomenon: The Red Guards of Defense — Hung Wei Ping. It seems to have been Lin's creation.

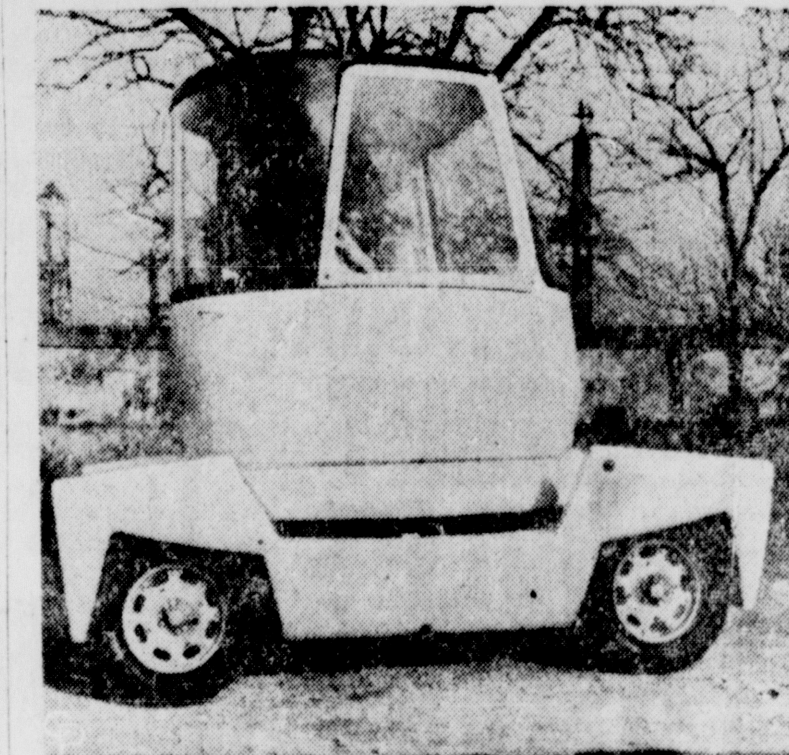

It was made up of students up to 18 millions of them, all born under communism, all indoctrinated from the cradle, all too unsophisticated to know what really was going on, and all spoiling for a binge of reckless violence with a license from on high. The intellectuals, the trade union people and the middle-aged "young Communists" would be no match for them.

streets by the hundreds of thousands in city after city, they beat and humiliated many a lower-level party leader accused of straying from "Mao Tse-tung's thinking." And they terrorized urban populations.

Lin, meanwhile, broke up the Peking city party committee and repopulated it with his own men, thus depriving the opposition of command over the Peking garrison. He fired the Central Committee of the Young Communist League and abolished the organization. He shook up the staffs of all important provincial papers. He purged universities. He decreed suspension of all higher education in September so that students could devote themselves to the cultural revolution and "Mao's thinking."

Peng Chen had been an early purge victim because he probably was most dangerous to Lin and Mao. His position was not unlike that held by the Soviet secret police chief, Lavrenty Beria, in Moscow when Stalin died.

POLLUTION BEATER—This unusual vehicle is the Urbanma, an electric car developed in Pisa, Italy. The non-air polluting car weighs 750 pounds, including 190 pounds of batteries, has a top speed of 33 mph and travels 33 miles without recharging. It has only one door, but the turret-shaped body can be rotated so occupants can get out either side. The "inventor" says he has orders for 6,600 at about $500 each.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the field of spying, J. Edgar Hoover is the American version of the Delphic Oracle. Politicians make a pilgrimage to the 73-year-old director of the FBI, seeking his words by phone or mail.

Hoover sticks in the public mind while staying pretty much out of the public picture except for an occasional statement on crime or communism or, more rarely, an argument.

No one knows better than Hoover he would not have been boss of the FBI 4 years if he had played politics. But this doesn't discourage politicians, or others, from sometimes interpreting what he says to suit their own purposes.

There's a recent example of it.

Almost three years ago the United States and the Soviet Union agreed on a treaty letting them open consulates in each other's country instead of being limited to an embassy, as they are now.

Because the treaty couldn't go into effect until the Senate approved, in 1965 Hoover was called before Congress to say what he thought of it.

He said Soviet consulates in the United States, staffed by Russians, would mean just that much more opportunity for Soviet spying and more work for the FBI.

This was interpreted by senators who opposed the treaty as meaning Hoover was against it, too. Right-wing outfits, seizing upon Hoover's words, rained letters on senators, protesting the treaty.

That same year the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, after considering the whole problem, put its blessing on the treaty. But it still needed approval by the full Senate and it never got there.

The Democratic leadership held the treaty back, believing the opposition was too strong. Now once again the committee is holding hearings and this year the full Senate is expected to act, one way or the other.

But Hoover had never said he was against the treaty. He never said he favored it, either.

What he did say was that once the Soviets opened consulates in this country life would be tougher for the FBI.

This week Secretary of State Dean Rusk, speaking for the Johnson administration on behalf of the treaty, went before the committee and made this main point:

Having American consulates in the Soviet Union would better protect American tourists there while the treaty itself would remove some of the difficulties in American-Soviet relations.

He acknowledged that permitting Soviet consulates in this country would increase the chances for Soviet spying. But he insisted the risks were small and could be handled by the FBI.

Rusk had a letter from Hoover explaining that his 1965 testimony about the increased danger of Soviet spying if consulates were opened did not mean he was opposing the treaty.

Then Sen. J. W. Fulbright, committee chairman, produced his own letter from Hoover, saying about the same thing. Fulbright favors the treaty. But another committee member, Sen. Karl E. Mundt, South Dakota, Republican, is against it.

Mundt had a third letter from the FBI boss in which Hoover spoke of extra work the consulates would mean for the FBI. But this time the Democratic leadership seems to think the full Senate will approve.

The irony in all this is that, while Hoover was talking about the increased danger of Soviet spying in this country if Soviet consulates were opened, little was said about American spying in the Soviet Union if American consulates were opened there.

Budgetary Bookkeeping Is Confusing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson used three kinds of budget bookkeeping in his message to Congress Tuesday, but he said he dislikes them all. He promised to try to develop a better budget concept.

The regular "administrative budget"—the one on which Congress is accustomed to acting in its processes of annual authorizing and appropriating—shows $135 billion of spending and an $8.1 billion deficit.

The so-called "cash budget" reaches $172.4 billion of spending by including government-held trust fund operations. It shows a deficit of $4.3 billion for fiscal 1968.

A third budget, called the "national income accounts," or NIA, has $169.2 billion of spending, but looks much better from the red-ink standpoint. Its deficit is only $2.1 billion.

The administrative budget is the one Johnson officially reported to Congress in his State of the Union message Jan. 10. It also is the one that can be compared to all past budgets in the historical tables of the budget documents.

It does not include the income and outgo of the increasingly important trust funds—Social Security, highway aid and others—which are held and administered by the government.

In the first five pages of his message Johnson stressed the NIA budget concept. It provides a better measure of the over-all inflationary or deflationary impact of government taxing and spending.

But he ignored the NIA concept in the rest of his message, explaining that the regular administrative budget is more useful in analyzing individual programs and agencies.

There was only a glancing reference to the cash budget. Though it includes the trust funds, it provides a distorted economic picture by treating federal spending just like spending, Johnson said.

The traditional budget concepts, he told Congress, "do not adequately portray the federal government's activities." He said he will name a bipartisan commission to try to develop a better procedure.

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether it's pop or op, primitive or erotic, even housewives who paint can have their day at the Whitney Museum of American Art where staff members will grade your artistic efforts just like teachers do in school.

"The purpose is for us to get acquainted with the artist's work," says Lloyd Goodrich, director of the museum. "It's just to get to know them, to keep in touch with the artists who don't have exhibitions."

Goodrich said that generally the museum doesn't make a practice of buying anything from a viewing. "But we may exhibit the artist's work at our big annual exhibition," he said. "The artists want to be exhibited and bought."

Marks in Monday's viewings ranged from A minus to D — for dreadful. The notations are kept on file.

"It's our system of remembering what we think," said Goodrich.

"Since the viewings are open to anyone who applies, you get a mixed bag," said John I. H. Baur, associate director of the museum.

"You get good and bad. The bad predominates."

Baur adds: "A museum dedicated to the living American artist can't refuse to look at the work of any artist."

The museum had its first viewing in a year Monday and five top staff members looked at 160 paintings and sculptures submitted by 125 artists of schools ranging from pop to abstract expressionist.

Goodrich said that generally the museum doesn't make a practice of buying anything from a viewing. "But we may exhibit the artist's work at our big annual exhibition," he said. "The artists want to be exhibited and bought."

Bond Proposal Is Submitted For State Building Authority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio with voter approval, could sell nearly $200 million worth of improvement bonds a year under an administration proposal to use bonds for state a Building authority.

That was the estimate on the basis of separate state highway and general funds from which most of the money would come to pay off bonds issued by a building authority.

Safeguards in the proposal backed by Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes would prevent the state from "bonding itself to death" as claimed by critics, Finance Director Richard Krabach asserted.

Ohio's bonded debt now stands at nearly $600 million.

Krabach explained that the new bond proposal carried a three-fourths of one per cent limit on general and highway fund money that could be obligated annually for bond retirement. That would amount to $5 million from the general fund and about half that total from highway funds at present.

That limitation currently would allow general revenue fund bonds totaling $110 - $125 million a year and $55 - $65 million in highway bonds, Krabach estimated.

Bonds above those totals in the same year would need a favorable vote of the people as now required, it was asserted.

The House State Government Committee set hearings today and tomorrow on a senate resolution establishing the building authority.

The amendment would need voter approval.

"The protection was put in the resolution so that if there ever was an irresponsible legislature, the most that could be spent is $5 million in general funds in any one year for bonds"

Krabach said.

"If the legislature, which has the final say, wanted to spend more in any one year, members would have to go to the people."

"Not every legislature would go all the way. Past legislatures have waited until there was a great demand for improvements and then lumped financing into one big bond issue."

Quick approval by the Republican - dominated legislature would place the proposal on May 2 primary election ballots with a favorable majority vote needed for final adoption.

Voter approval and subsequent legislative action to sanction building authority bond issue would not mean immediate sale of the bonds, Krabach said.

"It would take two years to plan and build contemplated improvements. Bonds wouldn't be sold until buildings were constructed," he explained.

"The buildings, or highways, would be paid for as they are used. This is they pay-as-you-go financing," Krabach asserted. "It differs from deficit financing," he added in giving this example:

"When you borrow money for current operations and spend it, you have only a debt at the end of the year for someone to pay. That's deficit financing. But under this bond financing plan, you will have a building or a highway that you can use while paying for it."

Ohio's bonded debt last Dec. 31 approximated $595 million with $325 million of the total contracted during Rhodes' first four-year term. The balance was incurred during previous administrations, including $27 million still owed on a Korean war bonus bond issue of $60 million.

Navy Finds Channel Mine At Saigon

NHA BE, South Vietnam (AP) — The U. S. Navy today played a New Year's Eve present from the Viet Cong — the first contact mine found in the main shipping channel to Saigon. The Navy said the Russians made it.

The 1,000-pounder, covered with barnacles, was one of a number of enemy mines the Navy has fished out of the Long Tau River and put on exhibit on a barge at this installation 10 miles south of Saigon.

Contact mines are exploded when a ship hits one of several horns projecting from the mine's casing. All others found in the Long Tau have been types detonated by remote control or crude devices attached to vessels and set off with a timing device, the Navy said.

"We don't know where the contact mine was assembled," said Capt. Paul Gray of St. John. Kan., assistant chief of naval operations in Vietnam. "It could have been assembled any place. Judging from the barnacles and other signs, we think it may have been kept hidden in a river in the Rung Sat special zone, then towed into the Long Tau."

The Rung Sat special zone is an area of rivers, canals, salt marshes and swamps south of Saigon from which the Viet Cong have launched many attacks on shipping heading up river toward the capital.

Several intensive military operations have been staged in the region recently, but progress has been slow.

Gray said a mine sweeping boat cut the big mine's anchor line Dec. 31 and the mine bobbed to the surface.

It was towed to the shore, and Lt. Frank Talarico, Red Bank, N.J., set about disarming it.

"I spent about two hours in the river working on it," said Talarico, a 21-year Navy veteran and a demolitions expert. "It took it mighty easy, you know. It was quite a New Year's Eve."

Gray said the mine would be sent to the United States for study.

"It's a constant fight to keep the channel open," said Gray, a Navy airman who was shot down five times in the Korean War.

Medicare Can't Do It

DENVER (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Kindsvater, who presides at the information booth in the new federal office building, said a woman approached her and said, "I'm looking for my sister. She came in here to change her sex."

It turned out the sister had stopped in to get her medicare classification changed from male to female.

The insect kingdom numbers nearly a million species that are already known, and scientists find another 6,000 or so every year.

Navy Finds Channel Mine At Saigon

NHA BE, South Vietnam (AP) — The U. S. Navy today played a New Year's Eve present from the Viet Cong — the first contact mine found in the main shipping channel to Saigon. The Navy said the Russians made it.

The 1,000-pounder, covered with barnacles, was one of a number of enemy mines the Navy has fished out of the Long Tau River and put on exhibit on a barge at this installation 10 miles south of Saigon.

Contact mines are exploded when a ship hits one of several horns projecting from the mine's casing. All others found in the Long Tau have been types detonated by remote control or crude devices attached to vessels and set off with a timing device, the Navy said.

"We don't know where the contact mine was assembled," said Capt. Paul Gray of St. John, Kan., assistant chief of naval operations in Vietnam. "It could have been assembled any place. Judging from the barnacles and other signs, we think it may have been kept hidden in a river in the Rung Sat special zone, then towed into the Long Tau."

The Rung Sat special zone is an area of rivers, canals, salt marshes and swamps south of Saigon from which the Viet Cong have launched many attacks on shipping heading up river toward the capital.

Several intensive military operations have been staged in the region recently, but progress has been slow.

Gray said a mine sweeping boat cut the big mine's anchor line Dec. 31 and the mine bobbed to the surface.

It was towed to the shore, and Lt. Frank Talarico, Red Bank, N.J., set about disarming it. "I spent about two hours in the river working on it," said Talarico, a 21-year Navy veteran and a demolitions expert. "It took it mighty easy, you know. It was quite a New Year's Eve."

Gray said the mine would be sent to the United States for study.

"It's a constant fight to keep the channel open," said Gray, a Navy airman who was shot down five times in the Korean War.

Medicare Can't Do It

DENVER (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Kindsvater, who presides at the information booth in the new federal office building, said a woman approached her and said, "I'm looking for my sister. She came in here to change her sex."

It turned out the sister had stopped in to get her medicare classification changed from male to female.

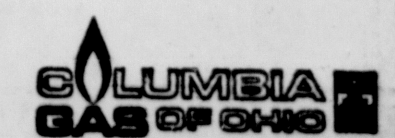

The insect kingdom numbers nearly a million species that are already known, and scientists find another 6,000 or so every year.

Virgin Islands Wants No More Farm Subsidies

By ROBERT BERRELE CHRISTIANSTED, Virgin Islands (AP) — The Virgin Islands has had its fill of subsidies for farming and doesn't want any more of them.

Agriculture is being realigned in this prosperous U.S. territory, but Gov. Ralph Paiwonsky makes it clear there will be no farming activity requiring government subsidies, either at the expense of the federal Treasury or the Virgin Islands' own exchequer. Otherwise, the governor says, farmers will get all the cooperation they need.

The sugar industry, one of the oldest in the Western world, has been driven out of the Virgin Islands by low prices and high wages.

Medics State LSD Policies In Report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An official policy on LSD (Lysergic acid Diethylamide) and other hallucinogenic drugs was reported Tuesday by Dr. Wendell A.
Butcher, chairman of the Mental Health Committee of the Ohio State Medical Association.

The policy calls for strict regulation of the drugs.

The resolution adopted declared in part that "the illicit or indiscriminate use of potent hallucinogens such as lysergic acid diethylamide can produce uncontrollable violence, overwhelming panic attempts, or attempted suicide or homicide and can result, among the unstable or those with pre-existing neurosis or psychosis, in severe illness demanding protracted stays in mental hospitals."

The resolution recommends:
"That manufacture and dis-
as needed under very strict control."

"That no hallucinogen be administered except by a physician trained in its use."

"That medical societies prepare adequate educational material for physicians so the toxicity of the drug can be readily recognized."

Chronic deficits, financed indirectly by local taxpayers for years, strangled an activity that remains the main support for the fragile economies of many small colonies and nations in the Caribbean. For centuries it was the No. 1 cash source here.

The relatively small local operation was centered on St.
Croix, largest of the three American Virgin Islands and the only one with any agricultural potential.

There is no firm decision yet on the future activity to which the land, most of it in private hands, will be applied.

Some of it is being sold for real estate development. There is talk of raising cattle or food crops to meet the demands of a small but growing market that has to import most of its food from the U.S. mainland and Puerto Rico. Under consideration are the possibilities of raising export crops — cotton and winter produce like tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers and melons
— for the nearby U.S. market.

The development of agriculture involves formidable limitations: shortage of water and of arable land, a limited internal market and expensive labor — the $1.25 U.S. minimum hourly wage applies here.

St. Croix is a thin sliver of emerald hills and flats, 23 miles long, averaging some five miles in width. Less than a fifth of its 54,000 acres is under cultivation.

Its smaller sisters, St. Thomas and St. John, are mostly mountains with beaches more profitably exploited as tourist attractions. They are 1,400 miles southeast of New York and 40 miles east of Puerto Rico. Tourism, the chief dollar earner, is confined mostly to St. Thomas and St. John.

No special problems were created by the disappearance of the sugar industry, except to the big producers. The islands have a chronic labor shortage. The sugar industry used mostly workers imported from nearby islands.

Paiwonsky, who believes the Virgin Islands should not rely too heavily on tourism, is banking on a combination that includes light industry, food crop and export farming, to make the islands' economy thoroughly workable.

CANCER CRUSADE HEAD — Dr. Don B. Schiewetz has been named area chairman of the central district for the upcoming fund raising crusade of the American Cancer Society. The Central District consists of Pickaway, Fairfield, Morrow, Knox, Marion, Licking, Delaware, Madison, Franklin and Union Counties. As district chairman, he will coordinate ideas of other units on organizing and planning, afford information regarding new materials and films for 1967 and provide leadership for volunteers.

Church-State Collision Is Developing in Italy

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI's opposition to Italian legislation to legalize divorce is developing into the most serious church-state controversy in Italy in years.

Supporters of the proposed law — which has divided Pre-
coalition government — question the right of the Pope to express judgment on the work of lawmakers in this Roman Catholic country where the Vatican is established in a sovereign state of its own.

The pontiff two days ago voiced "surprise and displeasure" after a parliamentary commission declared that a bill to permit divorce in certain cases did not violate Italy's constitution. The commission's decision means that if and when the bill gets to the floor of Parliament, a simple majority rather than a two-thirds vote will be needed to approve it.

The Pope attacked divorce as a sign of "pernicious moral decadence." I amounted to the first papal criticism of a parliamentary decision in postwar Italy.

All parties except Moro's Christian Democrats — Italy's Catholic party — and the Fascists considered the statement to be external interference in Italy's internal affairs. The Christian Democrats, who oppose the Socialist-backed divorce bill, defended the Pope.

The Christian Democrat newspaper Il Popolo noted today that the 1929 concordat governing church-state relations was incorporated into the Italian republic's constitution in 1947 and that in it the state recognized the validity of marriages performed by the church.

Therefore, Il Popolo argued, the Pope had every right to comment on the matter as a party to a bilateral agreement.
It urged the Socialists and Republicans, both partners in the center-left alliance, to try to understand the church's position.

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

DANA POINT, Calif. (AP) — Recently a film called "The Endless Summer" placed No. 10 on Variety's weekly list of the country's money-making films, which included "The Sound of Music," "Doctor Hivago" and
"The Bible."

Those epics cost more than $10 million apiece. "The Endless Summer" ran up a total bill of $50,000.

Dubbed "Fellini of the Foam"
— New York Times — and
"Bergman of the Boards" —
Time magazine — Bruce Brown has accomplished what appeared to be impossible. He took his simple, beautifully filmed movie to New York and achieved reviews that many a producer of epics would trade his yacht for.

After eight months "The Endless Summer" is still playing at the Kips Bay Theater in Manhattan, and it has broken records in other key cities. It is up for an Oscar as best documentary of 1966.

I dropped down to this sun-swept community 70 miles south of Hollywood to find out if success had spoiled Bruce Brown.
It hasn't. He remains the same independent soul as when he was showing his surfing films in high school auditoriums of Southern California.

"Yeah, there has been a lot of action since 'The Endless Summer' was accepted by a mass audience," he conceded. "Producers call me with ideas for movies, all of which I don't want to do.

"What I want to make is a movie about commercial fishing for swordfish. But every time I mention it to people in the movie business, their eyes glaze and they say, 'Nobody wants to see a film about fishing.'"

For a couple of years, the same persons were telling Brown, "Nobody wants to see a film about surfing." But Brown figured there would be general interest in his movie, which concerned the around-the-world search of two young surfers for

everything he owned to finance the New York opening, and the gamble paid off.

"If it hadn't, I would have lost everything — my house, my business, the whole works," he says. "I was up to my eyeballs in debt."

Everything is coming up roses
now. He can afford a 40-foot commercial fishing boat and an ocean runabout, four motorcycles and a Jeep to plow the nearby hills. A slim man of 23 with sun-bleached hair and a constant tan, he prefers the ocean or mountain life to in smog-bound Hollywood. He lives in a cliff-hanging house with his pretty wife and three children.

"Me work in a studio" he muses. "Not a chance."

By ROBERT BERRELLE
CHRISTIANSTED, Virgin Islands (AP) — The Virgin Islands has had its fill of subsidies for farming and doesn't want any more of them.

Agriculture is being realigned in this prosperous U.S. territory, but Gov. Ralph Paiewonsky makes it clear there will be no farming activity requiring government subsidies, either at the expense of the federal Treasury or the Virgin Islands' own exchequer. Otherwise, the governor says, farmers will get all the cooperation they need.

The sugar industry, one of the oldest in the Western world, has been driven out of the Virgin Islands by low prices and high wages.

Chronic deficits, financed indirectly by local taxpayers for years, strangled an activity that remains the main support for the fragile economies of many small colonies and nations in the Caribbean. For centuries it was the No. 1 cash source here.

The relatively small local operation was centered on St. Croix, largest of the three American Virgin Islands and the only one with any agricultural potential.

There is no firm decision yet on the future activity to which the land, most of it in private hands, will be applied.

Some of it is being sold for real estate development. There is talk of raising cattle or food crops to meet the demands of a small but growing market that has to import most of its food from the U.S. mainland and Puerto Rico. Under consideration are the possibilities of raising export crops — cotton and winter produce like tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers and melons — for the nearby U.S. market.

The development of agriculture involves formidable limitations: shortage of water and of arable land, a limited internal market and expensive labor — the $1.25 U.S. minimum hourly wage applies here.

St. Croix is a thin sliver of emerald hills and flats, 23 miles long, averaging some five miles in width. Less than a fifth of its 54,000 acres is under cultivation.

Its smaller sisters, St. Thomas and St. John, are mostly mountains with beaches more profitably exploited as tourist attractions. They are 1,400 miles southeast of New York and 40 miles east of Puerto Rico. Tourism, the chief dollar earner, is confined mostly to St. Thomas and St. John.

No special problems were created by the disappearance of the sugar industry, except to the big producers. The islands have a chronic labor shortage. The sugar industry used mostly workers imported from nearby islands.

Paiewonsky, who believes the Virgin Islands should not rely too heavily on tourism, is banking on a combination that includes light industry, food crop and export farming, to make the islands' economy thoroughly workable.

CANCER CRUSADE HEAD — Dr. Don B. Schiewetz has been named area chairman of the central district for the upcoming fund raising crusade of the American Cancer Society. The Central District consists of Pickaway, Fairfield, Morrow, Knox, Marion, Licking, Delaware, Madison, Franklin and Union Counties. As district chairman, he will coordinate ideas of other units on organizing and planning, afford information regarding new materials and films for 1967 and provide leadership for volunteers.

Church-State Collision Is Developing in Italy

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI's opposition to Italian legislation to legalize divorce is developing into the most serious church-state controversy in Italy in years.

Supporters of the proposed law — which has divided Premier Aldo Moro's center-left coalition government — question the right of the Pope to express judgment on the work of lawmakers in this Roman Catholic country where the Vatican is established in a sovereign state of its own.

The pontiff two days ago voiced "surprise and displeasure" after a parliamentary commission declared that a bill to permit divorce in certain cases did not violate Italy's constitution. The commission's decision means that if and when the bill gets to the floor of Parliament, a simple majority rather than a two-thirds vote will be needed to approve it.

The Pope attacked divorce as a sign of "pernicious moral decadence." I amounted to the first papal criticism of a parliamentary decision in postwar Italy.

All parties except Moro's Christian Democrats — Italy's Catholic party — and the Fascists considered the statement to be external interference in Italy's internal affairs. The Christian Democrats, who oppose the Socialist-backed divorce bill, defended the Pope.

The Christian Democrat newspaper Il Popolo noted today that the 1929 concordat governing church-state relations was incorporated into the Italian republic's constitution in 1947 and that in it the state recognized the validity of marriages performed by the church.

Therefore, Il Popolo argued, the Pope had every right to comment on the matter as a party to a bilateral agreement. It urged the Socialists and Republicans, both partners in the center-left alliance, to try to understand the church's position.

Success Hasn't Spoiled 29-Year-Old Bruce Brown

AP Movie-Television Writer
DANA POINT, Calif. (AP) — Recently a film called "The Endless Summer" placed No. 10 on Variety's weekly list of the country's money-making films, which included "The Sound of Music," "Doctor Hivago" and "The Bible."

Those epics cost more than $10 million apiece. "The Endless Summer" ran up a total bill of $50,000.

Dubbed "Fellini of the Foam" — New York Times — and "Bergman of the Boards" — Time magazine — Bruce Brown has accomplished what appeared to be impossible. He took his simple, beautifully filmed movie to New York and achieved reviews that many a producer of epics would trade his yacht for.

After eight months "The Endless Summer" is still playing at the Kips Bay Theater in Manhattan, and it has broken records in other key cities. It is up for an Oscar as best documentary of 1966.

I dropped down to this sun-swept community 70 miles south of Hollywood to find out if success had spoiled Bruce Brown. It hasn't. He remains the same independent soul as when he was showing his surfing films in high school auditoriums of Southern California.

"Yeah, there has been a lot of action since 'The Endless Summer' was accepted by a mass audience," he conceded. "Producers call me with ideas for movies, all of which I don't want to do.

"What I want to make is a movie about commercial fishing for swordfish. But every time I mention it to people in the movie business, their eyes glaze and they say, 'Nobody wants to see a film about fishing.'"

For a couple of years, the same persons were telling Brown, "Nobody wants to see a film about surfing." But Brown figured there would be general interest in his movie, which concerned the around-the-world search of two young surfers for the perfect wave. He hocked everything he owned to finance the New York opening, and the gamble paid off.

"If it hadn't, I would have lost everything — my house, my business, the whole works," he says. "I was up to my eyeballs in debt."

Everything is coming up roses now. He can afford a 40-foot commercial fishing boat and an ocean runabout, four motorcycles and a Jeep to plow the nearby hills. A slim man of 23 with sun-bleached hair and a constant tan, he prefers the ocean or mountain life to in smog-bound Hollywood. He lives in a cliff-hanging house with his pretty wife and three children.

"Me work in a studio" he muses. "Not a chance."

Medics State LSD Policies In Report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An official policy on LSD (Lysergic acid Diethylamide) and other hallucinogenic drugs was reported Tuesday by Dr. Wendell A. Butcher, chairman of the Mental Health Committee of the Ohio State Medical Association. The policy calls for strict regulation of the drugs.

The resolution adopted declared in part that "the illicit or indiscriminate use of potent hallucinogens such as lysergic acid diethylamide can produce uncontrollable violence, overwhelming panic attempts, or attempted suicide or homicide and can result, among the unstable or those with pre-existing neurosis or psychosis, in severe illness demanding protracted stays in mental hospitals."

The resolution recommends: "That manufacture and distribution of LSD be continued as needed under very strict control."

"That no hallucinogen be administered except by a physician trained in its use."

Former Soldier To Trade Uniforms

FAMILIAR SPOT — Michael McGinnis, recently discharged from the United States Army, tries out a chair at the dispatcher's desk of the local State Highway Patrol Post. Sgt. James W. Pribble looks on. A dispatcher before he was drafted, McGinnis hopes to enter the Patrol's Training Academy in March.

Michael McGinnis, recently returned from a tour of duty in Vietnam, will trade his army uniform for State Highway Patrol attire.

A dispatcher at the local post before he entered service, he plans to enroll in the Patrol Training Academy in March. He resumes his duty as a dispatcher at the local post.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis McGinnis of 144 Watt St., Mike was a military policeman. His entire Vietnam tour was served at Cam Ranh Bay, where a huge supply depot is located.

THERE was little to do for recreation and entertainment at Cam Ranh Bay, McGinnis reports. But fortunately service personnel stationed there were kept "pretty busy."

The base was a regular stop for USO shows and McGinnis saw such stars as Bob Hope and Danny Kaye perform.

One of his primary functions as a military policeman was guarding supply boats and barges at Cam Ranh Bay.

On one occasion a grenade exploded prematurely, rupturing the local soldier's eardrum.

McGinnis spent three weeks in a hospital in Tokyo, Japan. When he recovered, he was shipped back to Cam Ranh Bay.

IN DECEMBER, shortly before his tour of duty was completed, he and another military policeman were driving to investigate an accident involving a military vehicle.

The driver of the jeep in which McGinnis was riding lost control. The Circleville GI was thrown from the vehicle and suffered a broken leg.

When he completed his Vietnam duty tour, he had only 85 days of service time remaining. He received his discharge early because of this.

A graduate of Circleville High School, McGinnis became interested in the Patrol shortly before he was drafted.

Pot of Gold For Campaign A Mirage?

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Republicans learned Tuesday that the $60-million pot of gold Congress voted to pay for future presidential campaigns may be a mirage that could leave both parties financially stranded in 1968.

Fred C. Scribner Jr., its general counsel, predicted in a report prepared for the Republican National Committee's closing session that the income tax checkoff Congress approved will produce far less than the $30 million supposed to be available for each major party's presidential spending. He said it also may act to cut off private contributions.

"Congress had the germ of a good idea," Scribner said in an interview. "But I'm afraid we couldn't collect the money in time to do us much good, since none of it will become available until after income tax payments early in 1968."

Scribner said the GOP would be faced with the necessity of raising about $4 million to get its campaign started, since it gets no money in advance but is reimbursed only for actual campaign expenditures. He noted that these reimbursements do not take effect until after Sept. 1, 1968.

"It's going to be difficult to raise that kind of money because a lot of people who check off a $1 contribution to their income tax return—to be divided by both parties—are going to feel they have made their political contribution."

National Chairman Ray Bliss told a news conference Monday night there are "a lot of flaws in the law that have to be cleaned up by Congress." He noted, among other things, that none of the money can be used for national committee headquarters operations, which cost around $1.9 million last year.

Scribner said a separate organization might have to be set up for presidential candidates because the law specifies that the tax money can be used only for presidential campaigning. He said that when a party standard bearer campaigned with a nominee for governor, senator, House member or another office, expenses would have to be prorated.

Closing out what Bliss called the "most enthusiastic meeting in years," the chairman was preparing to appoint a special committee to pick a site for the 1968 nominating convention.

North Vietnamese Believe They Can Outlast Americans

HANOI, North Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnam is a guerrilla society.

The people here have been at war, mostly guerrilla war, for 25 years, and only the older ones remember a season of peace.

And this long visit of war not only has conditioned the character of the people, but also the nature of their economy.

The adults, and many teenagers, are trained to use a rifle or a machine gun.

You could say that the modern guerrilla society was established when the Japanese occupied Vietnam during World War II. The Japanese collaborated with the French residents, or most of them, and a Viet underground was fashioned to fight them both.

Later, the guerrilla society took on the French, and the world knows of the historic battle of Dien Bien Phu, where the Vietnamese astounded the French by transporting heavy artillery and other needs of war across the mountains and engaging the French.

Now, in the conflict against fellow countrymen in the south and the Americans, the North Viets enlist the same tactics, the tactics of the guerrilla fighter. Usually the soldiers move in small units, and only at night, and convoys are brief, and not

Medical Mirror

"SEEING" BY THE BLIND

Q. I have a blind friend who claims that she can "see" a person's face. Is there a scientific explanation for this?

A. We can find only one reference to this unique ability of the blind (often referred to as "facial perception"). The phenomenon seems in some way related to sound perception, apparently resembling a bat's environmental perception via built-in sonar. Beyond this there seems to be no other explanation at this time.

MEDICAL "PALMISTRY"

Q. Is it true that palm prints can be used in the diagnosis of certain diseases?

A. Yes, but the science of palmar dermatoglyphics, contrary to what might be inferred, has no relation to the age-old practice of palmistry (fortune telling). One disorder associated with characteristic lines and creases of the palm is Down's syndrome or "mongolism." The palm prints of patients with congenital heart disease may also deviate from the normal pattern. Abnormal palm-print patterns are found in various other disease conditions. Medical dermatoglyphics will no doubt have wider application as more is learned about this interesting subject.

You could say that the modern guerrilla society was established when the Japanese occupied Vietnam during World War II. The Japanese collaborated with the French residents, or most of them, and a Viet underground was fashioned to fight them both.

Later, the guerrilla society took on the French, and the world knows of the historic battle of Dien Bien Phu, where the Vietnamese astounded the French by transporting heavy artillery and other needs of war across the mountains and engaging the French.

Now, in the conflict against fellow countrymen in the south and the Americans, the North Vietnamese enlist the same tactics, the tactics of the guerrilla fighter. Usually the soldiers move in small units, and only at night, and convoys are brief, and not

Armco Again Sets Record

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—The Armco Steel Corp. reported today that for a second time its No. 3 blast furnace at the Middletown works has set a national production record.

Works Manager D. C. Osborne said the furnace produced 1,172, 568 tons of pig iron in 1966—an average of 3,212 tons a day.

The total exceeded the previous record, set by the furnace in 1965, by about 28,000 tons. Armco was one of the pioneers in the development of taconite ore pellets for blast furnace use, and is considered among the leading innovators in blast production techniques.

Medical Mirror

"SEEING" BY THE BLIND

Q. I have a blind friend who claims that she can "see" a person's face. Is there a scientific explanation for this?

A. We can find only one reference to this unique ability of the blind (often referred to as "facial perception"). The phenomenon seems in some way related to sound perception, apparently resembling a bat's environmental perception via built-in sonar. Beyond this there seems to be no other explanation at this time.

MEDICAL "PALMISTRY"

Q. Is it true that palm prints can be used in the diagnosis of certain diseases?

A. Yes, but the science of palmar dermatoglyphics, contrary to what might be inferred, has no relation to the age-old practice of palmistry (fortune telling). One disorder associated with characteristic lines and creases of the palm is Down's syndrome or "mongolism." The palm prints of patients with congenital heart disease may also deviate from the normal pattern. Abnormal palm-print patterns are found in various other disease conditions. Medical dermatoglyphics will no doubt have wider application as more is learned about this interesting subject.

Safe Deposit Boxes Enter Baker Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bobby Baker trial has become a saga of safe deposit boxes.

Testimony in U.S. District Court Tuesday centered around two such boxes — one rented by Baker, the other by the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla.

At issue was Baker's story that he collected nearly $100,000 in senatorial campaign contributions from California savings and loan executives in the fall of 1962 and turned the cash over to Kerr.

Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats, is accused of larceny, conspiracy and income tax evasion. The trial, in its third week, is expected to go to the jury by Friday.

The government says Baker kept $80,000 of the money and spent much of it on his Carousel Motel at Ocean City, Md. The prosecution contends $66,500 of the contributions was received by Baker in Washington, the rest on a trip to California.

Edward Bennett Williams, Baker's lawyer, told the jury last week he would prove that when Kerr's Washington safe deposit box was opened after Kerr's death Jan. 1, 1963, it contained the "equivalent" of the funds Baker received in Washington, less $25,000 cash which Baker says Kerr lent him — or $41,300.

Rex McClure, District of Columbia tax examiner, testified Tuesday he was present when the box was opened, and that the official count showed $42,950 cash.

Prosecutor William O. Bittman produced a bank record indicating that Baker paid a 52-minute visit to his own safe deposit box Nov. 29, 1962.

"You would have no need to stay there 52 minutes unless you were counting money, would you?" Bittman demanded.

Williams objected to this "smart observation" and Judge Oliver Gasch sustained him.

Baker said he probably stopped to chat with a bank official, and that time was erroneously recorded as time in the vault.

Baker testified Tuesday that his secretary, the late Nancy Carole Tyler, misfiled some papers and thus he failed to re-

Dear Abby: Teacher May Hold Key to Problem

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have tried to solve my problem myself, but it has gone too far for me.

I have a 13-year-old son who is an only child, and my husband babies him to death. Anything Ronnie wants, Ronnie gets.

Well, Ronnie has been out of school going on the fifth week.

He says he doesn't feel well and his father believes him and lets him stay home. I know Ronnie could go to school if he wanted to, because the minute the bus is gone Ronnie feels better. He spends the day watching TV, eating and fooling around.

If I try to make him go to school, his father says I am being "mean." I am not mean, Abby. I am only trying to do what's best for the boy. Can you help me?

"MEAN" MOM

DEAR MOM: Let a doctor examine Ronnie and decide whether or not he is well enough to go to school. Then go a step further and find out WHY Ronnie doesn't want to go to school. A conference with his teacher might be the key to the whole problem.

DEAR ABBY: I just married the greatest girl in the world but she's a terrible cook. So far I have been telling her her meals are terrific, but she is not getting any better and I don't know how much longer I can stand it.

Shall I tell her her meals are not fit to eat so she will improve them, or should I just hope she will improve with practice while I suffer in silence?

G. E. IN HOUSTON

DEAR G. E.: Tell your bride that you've been trying to be patient about her cooking but her batting average hasn't improved. A few cooking lessons — and a loving pinch (of care) in the kitchen might help.

DEAR ABBY: My question is, "How many baby showers is one person entitled to, anyway?"

I have a cousin who has had a baby every year for the past nine years and somebody in the family has promoted a baby shower for each one. The only time I ever hear from anyone in that tribe is when they want a gift for someone.

Isn't there a rule of etiquette that says you aren't supposed to give a baby shower for the same person more than three times? Let me know.

SHOWERED TO DEATH
DEAR SHOWERED: The only rule I know covering showers is that everyone who gets tapped, gets soaked.

DEAR ABBY: What, in your opinion, motivates people to go into teaching?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: I can't generalize about what "motivates" teachers. But thank God for it.

Eye Specialist Discounts Some Common Beliefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The best thing for your eyes is to use them, not save them, an expert says.

And contrary to some belief reading in poor light doesn't harm the eyes.

Dr. Albert E. Sloan, who said this Tuesday, is an eye surgeon at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary and chairman of the School Vision Problems Committee of the National Association for the Prevention of Blindness.

Sloan told a news conference that the belief still exists that reading in bed makes eyes weak.

The truth is that use improves the ability of the eye to use its potential fullest, he said.

Sloan was in Los Angeles as speaker at a week-long conference on eye, ear, nose and throat disorders.

Conference Tilts Highlight Area Basketball Scene

The Pickaway County cage schedule is limited to Friday this week as all three teams have open dates Saturday. Teays Valley, Logan Elm and Westfall all play league games.

Teays Valley travels to Franklin Heights Friday for the Vikings first game with the Falcons this year.

Logan Elm and Westfall are both involved in Scioto Valley Conference action.

The Braves host Paint Valley in their quest for the SVC title and the Mustangs travel to Pike-ton.

TEAYS VALLEY is riding along in second place in the Metropolitan League with a 5-1 record. The lone league loss for the Vikings has been to loop leader Reynoldsburg, undefeated in seven starts.

The Vikings are still in contention for the title this year. On Feb. 3, they travel to Whitehall and then host Reynoldsburg and Franklin Heights to close out the schedule.

Defending SVC champion Westfall has already lost two games in the conference — to Unioto and to Laurelville. A win over Paint Valley gives the Mustangs a 1-2 loop record.

Logan Elm, a pre-season favorite to cop the SVC, has edged Laurelville by one point in a double overtime and Pike-ton by four points in league action.

The Braves have two league games remaining after Friday's test with the Bearcats. The play at Westfall Feb. 3 and at Unioto Feb. 11.

Laurelville has two games on tap this weekend. Friday the Wildcats host New Lexington St. Aloysius and on Saturday they travel to Paint Valley for an SVC game.

Zane Trace has a chance to gain a share of the lead in Ross County League action when they travel to Southeastern Friday. The ZT Pioneers are idle Saturday.

Celts End 76ers' Win Skein at 9

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Red Auerbach apparently has given up the skirmish, but he still plans to win the war.

The outspoken general manager of the Boston Celtics came to Philadelphia a few hours before his team defeated the 76ers 118-106 Tuesday night and made a few pertinent observations about the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division race.

Noting that the Celtics are second in the East, nine games behind the leader 76ers, Auerbach said:

"When I coached the Washington Capitols we won the regular season title with a record of 49-11 during the 1946-47 season and got whipped in the playoffs.

"And one of my Boston teams won the Eastern Division by 14 or more games and got whipped in the playoffs."

Mix Is Loop's Player of Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Steve Mix, whose fancy shooting and rebounding led Toledo to a comeback 72-65 overtime victory over Villanova, is the Mid-American Conference basketball player of the week.

The 6-foot-6 sophomore from Toledo connected on 11 baskets in 14 shots and dropped in 4 of 5 free throws for 6 points. His tip-in with four seconds left forced the overtime and then he scored the Rockets' first four points in the extra period. He also snared 14 rebounds.

Others nominated for the weekly honor included Walt Platkowski of Bowling Green; Fred Brown of Kent State; Marshall's George Stone; Jerry Fisher of Miami and Reggie Lacey of Western Michigan.

Later, the Celtics, with Auerbach doing a little coaching from the row in back of the Boston bench, punctuated their boss' remarks. They ended a nine-game Philadelphia winning streak as well as a 36-game regular season home court string of victories dating back to Jan. 7, 1966.

Sam Jones scored 38 points while the famed Boston defense held Philadelphia to 11 points in the all-important last 10 minutes. That's when Philadelphia watched a 95-94 lead melt into a 12-point loss.

Hal Greer was high for the 76ers with 23 points.

At New York, Oscar Robertson scored 37 points and handed out 11 assists in leading the Cincinnati Royals to 126-118 victory over the Knicks. Adrian Smith contributed 28 points, 21 in the second half when the Royals broke the game open. Willis Reed scored 21 for the Knicks.

The Detroit Pistons easily defeated the Bulls 108-95 at Chicago behind the 32-point effort of rookie Dave Bing. Guy Rodgers paced Chicago with 21.

On the West Coast, Rick Barry scored 35 points and Nate Thurmond pulled down 28 rebounds in sparking the San Francisco Warriors to a 146-125 victory over the Baltimore Bullets. Gus Johnson's 23 points were high for the Bullets, playing without Don Ohl, their high scorer who has an injured right knee.

Chances Not Good For Willard's Trade to East

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers say the chances are slight that fullback Ken Willard will get his wish to be traded.

"In analyzing the personnel of the teams to which Ken wants to be traded, I seriously doubt the feasibility of such a trade," General Manager Lou Spadia said Tuesday.

Willard said he would give up the game unless traded to either the Washington Redskins or the Baltimore Colts, which are near his Richmond, Va., home.

Willard said he wanted to be near his insurance business in Richmond and that his decision was not based on any unhappiness with the coaches, players or fans in San Francisco.

Spadia said he had discussed the matter with Willard and was not convinced the two-year veteran from North Carolina will quit.

"If he does," said Spadia, "I'd be sorry to see him go."

Penalty Costly To Hiram Cagers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hiram's Terriers unquestionably are wishing they had the last three seconds of Tuesday night's basketball game to do all over.

Hiram got possession of the ball from Baldwin Wallace at the 0:03 mark of an Ohio Conference game knotted 26-26 and called time out—exceeding its quota. That gave B-W a technical foul, which Jack Mental sank and control of the ball leading to another foul, which Jack Dudik converted for a 64-62 victory.

In the only other Ohio college game of the night, Rick Roberson and Roland West bagged 12 field goals apiece as Cincinnati (13-3) wallowed Centenary 100-76 in non-conference play.

The century scoring by the Bearcats, normally a conservative offensive team, included 33 point by Roberson and 4 by West, overbalancing 31 by little Larry Ward of the Louisiana Gentlemen.

Joe Namath of the New York Jets, Len Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs and George Blanda of the Houston Oilers all threw five touchdown passes in one game last season.

Chances Not Good For Willard's Trade to East

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers say the chances are slight that fullback Ken Willard will get his wish to be traded.

"In analyzing the personnel of the teams to which Ken wants to be traded, I seriously doubt the feasibility of such a trade," General Manager Lou Spadia said Tuesday.

Willard said he would give up the game unless traded to either the Washington Redskins or the Baltimore Colts, which are near his Richmond, Va., home.

Willard said he wanted to be near his insurance business in Richmond and that his decision was not based on any unhappiness with the coaches, players or fans in San Francisco.

Spadia said he had discussed the matter with Willard and was not convinced the two-year veteran from North Carolina will quit.

"If he does," said Spadia, "I'd be sorry to see him go."

Views on TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If Andrew A. Rooney, writer and producer of CBS' Tuesday night "Essay on Women" is as smart as he seems to be, he'll get out of town and hide until furious feminine reaction to his effort dies down.

The twinkle in the eyes of his narrator, Harry Reasoner, did not make amends for all those snide things he was saying about us. What made things worse was that he demonstrated by film that he was often right.

Rooney, who has demonstrated his affection for doors and bridges in earlier television essays, seems to like us in spite of everything.

Bravely risking a broad generalization, his thesis was that "what men want from women is love, a clean house, forgiveness and a stubborn holding to moral values." Obviously, he wishes we would stop stewing about such things as establishing our own identities, get back in the home and concentrate on dinner and dusting.

Rooney poked devastating fun at clubwomen fretting over woman's status and at working women. His reflections on the military woman may be the despair of recruiting officers.

When he was dealing with woman in the family — wife and mother — he was downright sentimental.

He agreed that "housewife" is a terrible word, and that modern appliances have actually increased woman's work because she now tackles twice as much. He stated unequivocally that most American women are good shoppers but bad cooks, that women who work give up their own sense of values for men's — position, power and money. He said that women with power "are mean to each other," and use more authority than is necessary.

The unkindest cuts were his illustrations — fat lady shoppers in tight treader pants, a bossy supervisor brusquely ordering around a member of her staff, a military reeveeee

He was most interesting when philosophizing on man's relationship to women — "Men like women anywhere and at work is no exception. One man on the other hand, is never really comfortable when the one woman he likes best, works. A man does not like to share a woman with anyone."

Reasoner, at the outset announced that the broadcast had been prepared by men and made no claim to being fair. It wasn't, but it was literate and witty.

NBC will present a two-hour adaptation of the musical comedy hit, "Damn Yankees" April 8, but has not announced the stars. It is expected that the network will also present an adaptation of Irving Berlin's "Annie Get Your Gun" with Ethel Merman sometime in March.

Recommended tonight: Perry Como Special, NBC, 9-10 EST, with Nancy Ames and Eddy Arnold.

Army Grabs 4th Straight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The basketball caissons are rolling at West Point. That means if all goes well the Black Knights of the Hudson once more will be in a post-season tournament in March.

Paced by Bill Schutsky's 37 points, the Army Cadets chalked up their fourth in a row by overwhelming Massachusetts 68-46 Tuesday.

That upped Army's overall record to 7-6. If the Cadets can follow through against Boston University, Fordham, Penn State, Manhattan, St. John's, Rutgers, NYU and Navy in their remaining games, they are virtually certain to land a post-season tournament berth.

In other home court victories on Tuesday's slim program, Cincinnati crushed Centenary 100-76, East Carolina beat George Washington 79-73, Arizona State humbled Hawaii 79-64 and San Francisco downed San Francisco State 75-64.

On the road, Georgia Tech defeated Clemson 88-77. All the Top Ten teams in The Associated Press poll were idle.

Schutsky, a 6-foot-2 junior from Hillside, N.J., exploded for 15 straight points to cut short a second half rally by Massachusetts at West Point.

The co-leaders of the Yankee Conference had rallied to within two points at 40-38 before Schutsky went on his spree. Schutsky got 17 points in the first half and 20 after intermission.

Rick Roberson, a 6-9 soph, threw in 33 points to lead Cincinnati over Centenary as the Bearcats boosted their season record to 13-3. Larry Ward led the losing Giants by 31.

Charlie LaRue scored six vital points in the closing minutes to keep East Carolina ahead of George Washington. Bill Braun-ley's 13 points paced Arizona State over Hawaii as the Sun Devils used their reserves most of the way.

Phil Waggoner, with 20 points, led Georgia Tech over Clemson as the Engineers won their fourth straight to make their season record 9-8. Randy Mahaffey was high for Clemson with 21.

Sophomore Mike Doherty threw in nine of 11 field goal tries in the second half to spark San Francisco over San Francisco State. The Dons led by only 23-26 at halftime before Doherty broke loose.

The Bucks opened the indoor season Saturday at French Fieldhouse in a triangular meet against Big Ten champion Michigan State and William & Mary. The indoor season at home is climaxed by the All-Ohio meet Feb. 18.

But better days may be coming.

"We really believe that in another year we'll be vastly improved," Coach Bob Epskamp told a press luncheon Tuesday.

Epskamp, who came over from Miami (Ohio) last season in a bid to build the Bucks' sagging track fortunes, already has installed a streamlined program that promises to bring results.

Ohio State has 103 athletes participating in track compared to the 40 or 50 who came out in past seasons.

"We work them all during the week and the top 28 get into action on Saturday," Epskamp said.

But the others are getting a chance to show their stuff on Friday nights when freshman athletes and varsity trackmen not good enough to compete on Saturday battle it out.

"We're interested in putting on track that will create spectator interest," Epskamp says.

There have been early indications of a brighter future. Last week, in an intrasquad meet, the 10 best performances in a 14-event program were turned in by four freshmen, four sophomores and two juniors.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It has been 17 long years since Ohio State won the Big Ten indoor track meet and eight years since the Bucks finished in the first division.

But better days may be coming.

"We really believe that in another year we'll be vastly improved," Coach Bob Epskamp told a press luncheon Tuesday.

Epskamp, who came over from Miami (Ohio) last season in a bid to build the Bucks' sagging track fortunes, already has installed a streamlined program that promises to bring results.

Ohio State has 103 athletes participating in track compared to the 40 or 50 who came out in past seasons.

"We work them all during the week and the top 28 get into action on Saturday," Epskamp said.

But the others are getting a chance to show their stuff on Friday nights when freshman athletes and varsity trackmen not good enough to compete on Saturday battle it out.

The ambitious mentor, with assistants Frank Zubovitch and Dick Bowers, has another goal in mind.

Rain May Help Even Course Odds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rain may help the usually dry Los Angeles Open golf tournament—providing the downpour doesn't continue Thursday, opening day.

Last week, observers said the Rancho Park municipal course fairways seemed too hard and would have been easy marks for the long-hitting pros. Since then, Los Angeles has had a good drenching. So good that several fairways were under water Tuesday, but the forecast was for clearing skies.

Favorites in the 14-man Open field are, of course, Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Bill Casper. Nicklaus just picked up $16,000 by winning the Bing Crosby tournament on the Monterey Peninsula, and Palmer and Casper were not far behind.

Palmer, in particular, should be looking forward to the $100,000 Los Angeles Open. It was in the third round of the Open last year at Rancho Park that he shot 9 on nine holes, totalling 62 for 18 holes, both records for the 1966 pro tour.

Palmer has won the Open twice, with 273 last year and 274 in 1963.

All top 10 money winners and 45 of the top 50 from 1966 will attack the 6,821-yard layout, which has par of 36-35-71.

Views on TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If Andrew A. Rooney, writer and producer of CBS's Tuesday night's "Essay on Women" is as smart as he seems to be, he'll get out of town and hide until furious feminine reaction to his effort dies down.

The twinkle in the eyes of his narrator, Harry Reasoner, did not make amends for all those snide things he was saying about us. What made things worse was that he demonstrated by film that he was often right.

Rooney, who has demonstrated his affection for doors and bridges in earlier television essays, seems to like us in spite of everything.

Bravely risking a broad generality, his thesis was that "what men want from women is love, a clean house, forgiveness and a stubborn holding to moral values." Obviously, he wishes we would stop stewing about such things as establishing our own identities, get back in the home and concentrate on dinner and dusting.

Rooney poked devastating fun at clubwomen fretting over woman's status and at working women. His reflections on the military woman may be the despair of recruiting officers.

When he was dealing with woman in the family — wife and mother — he was downright sentimental.

He agreed that "housewife" is a terrible word, and that modern appliances have actually increased woman's work because she now tackles twice as much. He stated unequivocally that most American women are good shoppers but bad cooks, that women who work give up their own sense of values for men's — position, power and money. He said that women with power "are mean to each other," and use more authority than is necessary.

The unkindest cuts were his illustrations — fat lady shoppers in tight turtleneck pants, a bossy supervisor brusquely ordering around a member of her staff, a military review of women in dowdy, mannish uniforms.

He was most interesting when philosophizing on man's relationship to women — "Men like women anywhere and at work is no exception. One man on the other hand, is never really comfortable when the one woman he likes best, works. A man does not like to share a woman with anyone."

Reasoner, at the outset announced that the broadcast had been prepared by men and made no claim to be fair. It wasn't, but it was literate and witty.

NBC will present a two-hour adaptation of the musical comedy hit, "Damn Yankees" April 8, but has not announced the stars. It is expected that the network will also present an adaptation of Irving Berlin's "Annie Get Your Gun" with Ethel Merman sometime in March.

Army Grabs 4th Straight

The basketball caissons are rolling at West Point.

That means if all goes well the Black Knights of The Hudson once more will be in a post-season tournament in March.

Paced by Bill Schutsky's 37 points, the Army Cadets chalked up their fourth in a row by overwhelming Massachusetts 68-46 Tuesday.

That upped Army's over-all record to 7-6. If the Cadets can follow through against Boston University, Fordham, Penn State, Manhattan, St. John's, Rutgers, NYU and Navy in their remaining games, they are virtually certain to land a post-season tournament berth.

In each of the last three seasons they reached the semifinals of the NIT.

In other home court victories on Tuesday's slim program, Cincinnati crushed Centenary 100-76, East Carolina beat George Washington 79-73, Arizona State humbled Hawaii 79-64 and San Francisco downed San Francisco State 75-64. On the road, Georgia Tech defeated Clemson 88-77. All the Top Ten teams in The Associated Press poll were idle.

Schutsky, a 6-foot-2 junior from Hillsdale, N.J., exploded for 15 straight points to cut short a second half rally by Massachusetts at West Point.

The coleaders of the Yankee Conference had rallied to within two points at 40-38 before Schutsky went on his spree. Schutsky got 17 points in the first half and 20 after intermission.

Rick Roberson, a 6-9 soph, threw in 33 points to lead Cincinnati over Centenary as the Bearcats boosted their season record to 13-3. Larry Ward led the losing Giants with 31.

Charlie LaRue scored six vital points in the closing minutes to keep East Carolina ahead of George Washington. Bill Braun they's 13 points paced Arizona State over Hawaii as the Sun Devils used their reserves most of the way.

Phil Wagoned, with 20 points, led Georgia Tech over Clemson as the Engineers won their fourth straight to make their season record 9-6. Randy Mahaffey was high for Clemson with 21.

Hawaiian Islands Beauty Universally Appreciated

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WAIKIKI, Hawaii — The love affair between the world and the Hawaiian Islands is blooming even more beautifully this season. As a veteran reporter who covers the romantics of Hollywood, we can safely say this romance is here to stay.

Maybe it's because of the film "Hawaii," maybe it's because of travelogues on television. But experts here say it's because of the islands themselves, the beautiful girls, flowers, music, etc. They are all universally appreciated.

Hawaii's music has always held a special niche and allure for the world. Recently, Arthur Lyman and his group "Invaded" the U.S. for a long stay, then returned here. While he was in the islands, Don Ho and his aggregation made a further inroad for Hawaii on the mainland. It's infectious sound played by people who are equally exotic.

Lyman, who is known as "Hawaii's Own," claims the film "South Pacific" probably did more for the island state than the current film because the former's music has been sung by more people, and, of course, longer. The current Julie Andrews-Max Von Sydow epic has no tunes to be sung — and also little romance to be remembered from the film. However, the scenes of semi-naked natives may cause many tourists to believe such is the case today. Forget it.

On second thought, there is semi-nudity in Hawaii today — but it is in the "topless" clubs that have sprung up in Honolulu just as they have on the mainland. However, this time it is Hawaii following the haoles (white men) in the disrobing custom. That's show biz.

Added leisure time and vacations for workers leads United Airlines to expect a million tourists annually to Hawaii in 1970. Hotels expect to double their rooms in the next decade. The likai, for example, where two large night clubs now supply entertainment, will jump its rooms from 881 to 1,503 in two years. The Hilton hotels and Sheraton chain (five) are also adding rooms and buildings. Hawaiian airlines, which wings the tourists from island to island, also expects to double business.

An it has all come about because of the unchanging charm of the people and the land. Lyman, for example, typifies this charm. Despite his professional success on the mainland and in the islands, in person and via records, Lyman can be found any morning, after a long night playing in the Canoe House at the likai, with fellow Hawaiians, paddling an outrigger canoe way out to sea, or riding a surfboard along with the kids. Yes, even the venerable 70 years-plus Duke Kahanamoku can be seen paddling out on his surfboard, although the ex-Olympic champ may not too often ride it in.

Lyman maintains the feeling of the islands in his music via weird instruments, in addition to the standard vibes, piano, bass, percussion. The former include gourds, bamboo, asses' jaws, bells, etc. They perform in the Canoe House, a replica of same type building used 500 years ago by the Polynesian natives; thatched canopy and umbrellas and, at the door, a 16-foot-high two-and-a-half ton Tiki. (This is the god of war, which, we assume is soothed by the sounds inside the Canoe House).

The 25th anniversary of Pearl Harbor Day also played an important part in the islands' added tourist "invasion" plans. Lyman recalled that day of infamy. He was with his grandfather, who worked at the Army's Hickam Field. "After that day," recalls Lyman, "any time we'd hear planes coming over, we'd jump under our mattresses."

Although Lyman's wife is from the mainland, she qualifies to add to the lure of the islands. Not only is she his manager and agent, but her Hawaii "culture" springs from her job where they met: she was a "kisser" for the Hawaiian Village hotel.

A "kisser"?
Yes, she was one of those exotic creatures who greet new arrivals with a ginger lei and — kisses 'em.

Time by Any Other Name Would Be Just as Late

COLUMBUS, Ohio AP — Some told stories of Indian blankets, others quoted the Bible and spoke of motherhood, and one man brought signatures from 26,000 golfers.

But when it all ended Tuesday night, the decision, for all practical purposes, was made: All of Ohio will go on Daylight Saving Time this summer.

A 5-3 vote by the Senate Agriculture-State Agencies Committee killed the emotionally charged measure that would have exempted Ohio from the new federal daylight time law and kept it on Eastern Standard Time the year around.

Although only two nights of hearings were held on the Measure, veteran lawmakers said they hardly could remember when an issue stirred so much reaction in so little time.

The first hearing Monday was for advocates of standard time while Tuesday night the daylight people had their say. Both sessions were in packed and overflowing committee rooms and emotions ranged from firm conviction to humor.

Sen. Tennyson Guyer, R-Findlay, committee chairman and sponsor of the standard time bill, attributed its defeat to legislative reapportionment which gave metropolitan areas already oriented to daylight time a bigger voice in the legislature.

"We had too many city people sitting on country committees," said Guyer whose north-west district is in the heart of Ohio farm country. Farm groups were the chief supporters of Guyer's bill while Cleveland and other cities in northeast Ohio were its opponents.

Among Tuesday night's opposition witnesses was William E. Lyons of Canal Fulton who presented the golfers' signatures

the extra hour of daylight, in one way or another, added $100 million a year to Ohio's economy. Daylight time "will produce more than all the new industries the Rhodes administration has attracted," Lyons said. He is past president of the Outdoor Recreation Association.

Other witnesses included an airlines' spokesman who said DST would permit more comprehensive flight schedules conforming with neighboring states. Carlton Dargusch Jr. of the Ohio Association of Broadcasters said fast time would conform with New York which beams network radio and television programs into Ohio.

Supporters of the bill included mothers and farm wives who expressed concern over their children having to wait for school buses in the morning darkness. Theater spokesmen joined in the maternal plea it is next to impossible to get youngsters to bed before dark. Guyer, a public relations man and popular toastmaster, had opened the proceedings with an admonition that regardless of what happened "no one can add to the time he has on this earth."

He spoke of an Indian "whose blanket was too short at the bottom so he cut off some and put it on the top." Quoting from the scriptures, he said "There is a time to be born and a time to die."

James Hanson, commission researcher, said he had been in touch with three federal officials in attempt to answer constitutional questions of committee members. "All were in agreement. They disclaimed any ability to give an authoritative answer," Hanson said.

U.S. Budget Is Costly on Local Level

Pickaway County taxpayers will be expected to pay approximately $23,673,600 as their share of the federal budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Ohio taxpayers as a whole will be required to provide $7.398 million as their share of the federal budget. The estimates, based on Ohio Chamber of Commerce research, were disclosed by Frank E. Cheney, OCC president.

The OCC calculated these figures as Ohio taxpayers' share of the $135 billion federal administrative budget proposed by President Johnson. It is based on the Chamber's calculations that Ohio taxpayers bear 5.48 per cent of all federal taxes.

By way of contrast, the $7.398 million figure to be paid by Ohioans to support the President's proposed budget is 11 times the amount of Ohio taxes collected this year to finance Ohio's General Revenue Fund, which supports most state programs, the report noted.

Using another illustration, the Chamber said this annual interest cost to Ohioans would pay off the entire debt of the State of Ohio and still leave $146,000,000.

Of White House residents, none entertained more varied guests than the Franklin D. Roosevelt. Eleanor Roosevelt reported the total for one year: 323 houseguests, 4,729 served meals, 14,056 offered light refreshments.

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Correspondent

WAIKIKI, Hawaii — The love affair between the world and the Hawaiian Islands is blossoming even more beautifully this season. As a veteran reporter who covers the romantics of Hollywood, we can safely say this romance is here to stay.

Maybe it's because of the film "Hawaii," maybe it's because of travelogues on television. But experts here say it's because of the islands themselves, the beautiful girls, flowers, music, etc. They are all universally appreciated.

Hawaii's music has always held a special niche and allure for the world. Recently, Arthur Lyman and his group "Invaded" the U.S. for a long stay, then returned here. While he was in the islands, Don Ho and his aggregation made a further inroad for Hawaii on the mainland. It's infectious sound played by people who are equally exotic.

Lyman, who is known as "Hawaii's Own," claims the film "South Pacific" probably did more for the island state than the current film because the former's music has been sung by more people, and, of course, longer. The current Julie Andrews-Max Von Sydow epic has no tunes to be sung — and also little romance to be remembered from the film. However, the scenes of semi-naked natives may cause many tourists to believe such is the case today. Forget it.

On second thought, there is semi-nudity in Hawaii today — but it is in the "topless" clubs that have sprung up in Honolulu just as they have on the mainland. However, this time it is Hawaii following the haoles (white men) in the disrobing custom. That's show biz.

Added leisure time and vacations for workers leads United Airlines to expect a million tourists annually to Hawaii in 1970. Hotels expect to double their rooms in the next decade. The likai, for example, where two large night clubs now supply entertainment, will jump its rooms from 881 to 1,503 in two years. The Hilton hotels and Sheraton chain (five) are also adding rooms and buildings. Hawaiian airlines, which wings the tourists from island to island, also expects to double business.

An it has all come about because of the unchanging charm of the people and the land. Lyman, for example, typifies this charm. Despite his professional success on the mainland and in the islands, in person and via records, Lyman can be found any morning, after a long night playing in the Canoe House at the Ilikai, with fellow Hawaiians, paddling an outrigger canoe way out to sea, or riding a surfboard along with the kids. Yes, even the venerable 70-year-old Duke Kahanamoku can be seen paddling out on his surfboard, although the ex-Olympic champ may not too often ride it in.

Lyman maintains the feeling of the islands in his music via weird instruments, in addition to the standard vibes, piano, bass, percussion. The former include gourds, bamboo, asses' jaws, bells, etc. They per-

District Solon To Present Talk

Myrl Shoemaker, representative to the Ohio Legislature from the 21st District which comprises Pickaway and Ross counties is to be the key speaker Saturday during a Columbus YMCA function at Capital University.

The Pre-legislative session is to be on "The Legislative Process." Shoemaker's address will start at 9:45 a. m. in the Toledo Room.

The assembly is directed to the junior and senior high school students of the area.

form in the Canoe House, a replica of same type building used 500 years ago by the Polynesian natives; thatched canopy and umbrellas and, at the door, a 16-foot-high two-and-a-half ton Tiki. (This is the god of war, which, we assume is soothed by the sounds inside the Canoe House).

The 25th anniversary of Pearl Harbor Day also played an important part in the islands' added tourist "invasion" plans. Lyman recalled that day of infamy. He was with his grandfather, who worked at the Army's Hickam Field. "After that day," recalls Lyman, "any time we'd hear planes coming over, we'd jump under our mattresses."

Although Lyman's wife is from the mainland, she qualifies to add to the lure of the islands. Not only is she his manager and agent, but her Hawaii "culture" springs from her job where they met: she was a "kisser" for the Hawaiian Village hotel.

A "kisser"?

Time by Any Other Name Would Be Just as Late

COLUMBUS, Ohio AP — Some told stories of Indian blankets, others quoted the Bible and spoke of motherhood, and one man brought signatures from 26,000 golfers.

But when it all ended Tuesday night, the decision, for all practical purposes, was made: All of Ohio will go on Daylight Saving Time this summer.

A 5-3 vote by the Senate Agriculture-State Agencies Committee killed the emotionally charged measure that would have exempted Ohio from the new federal daylight time law and kept it on Eastern Standard Time the year around.

Although only two nights of hearings were held on the Measure, veteran lawmakers said they hardly could remember when an issue stirred so much reaction in so little time.

The first hearing Monday was for advocates of standard time while Tuesday night the daylight people had their say. Both sessions were in packed and overflowing committee rooms and emotions ranged from firm conviction to humor.

Sen. Tennyson Guyer, R-Findlay, committee chairman and sponsor of the standard time bill, attributed its defeat to legislative reapportionment which gave metropolitan areas already oriented to daylight time a bigger voice in the legislature.

"We had too many city people sitting on country committees," said Guyer whose northwest district is in the heart of Ohio farm country. Farm groups were the chief supporters of Guyer's bill while Cleveland and other cities in northeast Ohio were its opponents.

Among Tuesday night's opposition witnesses was William E. Lyons of Canal Fulton who presented the golfers' signatures

the extra hour of daylight, in one way or another, added $100 million a year to Ohio's economy. Daylight time "will produce more than all the new industries the Rhodes administration has attracted," Lyons said. He is past president of the Outdoor Recreation Association.

Other witnesses included an airlines' spokesman who said DST would permit more comprehensive flight schedules conforming with neighboring states.

Carlton Dargusch Jr. of the Ohio Association of Broadcasters said fast time would conform with New York which beams network radio and television programs into Ohio.

Supporters of the bill included mothers and farm wives who expressed concern over their children having to wait for school buses in the morning darkness. Theater spokesmen joined in the maternal plea it is next to impossible to get youngsters to bed before dark.

Guyer, a public relations man and popular toastmaster, had opened the proceedings with an admonition that regardless of what happened "no one can add to the time he has on this earth."

He spoke of an Indian "whose blanket was too short at the bottom so he cut off some and put it on the top." Quoting from the scriptures, he said "There is a time to be born and a time to die."

Even the normally staid and straight-laced legislative service commission got into lighter moments of the hearings.

James Hanson, commission researcher, said he had been in touch with three federal officials in attempt to answer constitutional questions of committee members. "All were in agreement. They disclaimed any ability to give an authoritative answer," Hanson said.

U.S. Budget Is Costly on Local Level

Pickaway County taxpayers will be expected to pay approximately $23,673,600 as their share of the federal budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Ohio taxpayers as a whole will be required to provide $7.398 billion as their share of the federal budget. The estimates, based on Ohio Chamber of Commerce research, were disclosed by Frank E. Cheney, OCC president.

The estimated Pickaway County figure has gone up from an estimated $16,831,600 in fiscal 1963, a period of five years.

The OCC calculated these figures as Ohio taxpayers' share of the $135 billion federal administrative budget proposed by President Johnson. It is based on the Chamber's calculations that Ohio taxpayers bear 5.48 per cent of all federal taxes.

By way of contrast, the $7.398 billion figure to be paid by Ohioans to support the President's proposed budget is 11 times the amount of Ohio taxes collected this year to finance Ohio's General Revenue Fund, which supports most state programs, the report noted.

Using another illustration, the Chamber said this annual interest cost to Ohioans would pay off the entire debt of the State of Ohio and still leave $146,000,000.

Of White House residents, none entertained more varied guests than the Franklin D. Roosevelts. Eleanor Roosevelt reported the total for one year: 323 houseguests, 4,729 served meals, 14,056 offered light refreshments.
